Getting Things Done

Overall, the student body as a whole had a tremendous power to get things done. One person couldn't cheer alone, yet when hundreds of Grizzlies joined together to fill the stands at the IF-Skyline basketball game, a great big spirited mass of blue fans waved with awesome power. Athletes and fans alike were there to prove that the Griz had pride.

At other times, they were there participating in homecoming or at dances all decked out and jammin' to the latest hits.

Students were there attending classes, bumming the halls, going out to lunch, working after school, sweating at practice or playing in a game.

No matter what you did, you got things done and we "Gotcha Covered."

Reminding the Tigers that our football team went to State while they didn't make it, Skyline students hold up a sign during halftime at the varsity boys' basketball game against Idaho Falls.

Good friend, Katie Jeffries, gives Gretchen Meikle a hug and a pat of the back to congratulate her on her Homecoming Queen selection.

Covered with sheets for their costumes as KKK members, Neil Winberg and Melissa Warren enjoy the Buddy-Morp dance.

Asking her boyfriend Brian Thell if he's ready to go yet is Julie Savin.

Being Yourself

Within the great mass of the student body and faculty, individuals also had the opportunity to shine by themselves. From the administration down to the smallest incoming sophomore, getting involved and participating was the key.

Principal Lewis Gourley gave spirited pep talks at assemblies, attended every dance and most sports events. He could even be found jitterbugging with the mascot at some games.

Parents involved themselves with the Booster Club and lent a helping hand to the sports, academic and club programs.

Athletes dedicated themselves to months of rigorous practices and challenging games. Academic performers also put in many hours at numerous practice sessions and performances.

Officers and members alike carried out many projects and activities. Individuals were important to the group and to keeping the Grizzlies' reputation high.

No matter who you were, you were being yourself and we with the Booster Club and lent "Gotcha Covered."

Atop the Booster Club truck in the Homecoming Parade a grizzly bear rides in glory.

Covering the gym floor at the end of the pep assembly before the IF-Skyline football game, the student body displays their spirit.

Completely covering their Pocatello opponent during a game are Amy Frandsen, Kristy Jensen, Lisa White, and Debbie Gertsch.

Painted with blue spray paint in the middle of the night the Ravsten Stadium goal posts wish the Skyline football players "good luck" at the State tournament.

Jitterbugging with the mascot during the time out in the IF-Skyline basketball game is Principal Lewis Gourley.

Going Places

With careful strategy, Mike Browning takes his turn as his opponent Aldon Colby and on looker Roben Aeschbacher study his move.

All bundled up to lose weight for wrestling, Chris Owens pauses at hi locker to get a book before hurrying off to class.

Determined to hang a huge teddy bear as high as it will go on the senior wall, Ty Morgan crawls among the gym rafters as friends, David Gronbeck, Steve Hyde and Greg Taylor assist him.

Hurrying out to their cars students break away from school lunches and drive to fast food restaurants for lunch.

Unfolding More Spirit

Taking advantage of all the great opportunities, the entire student body participated in spirit activities. Showing spirit was as simple as wearing funky socks on a dress up day, or as extreme as the girls playing powderpuff football while the guys dressed up as cheerleaders to cheer them on.

Spirit lines at football games were more than double their usual length because more people got involved. Spirit Club had a new spak and started up again, with 30 members. Juniors had 45 students actively involved in their Homecoming skit; more than this student body has ever seen. Pep assemblies had greater attendance and more participation.

With just a handful of people - such as Principal Lewis Gourley, cheerleaders, Teddy Bears, Spirit Club, student body officers and all of the class officers - to set things in motion, the great mound of spirit started rolling and gathered momentum as it went. Spirit at Skyline extended beyond the usual boundaries this year.

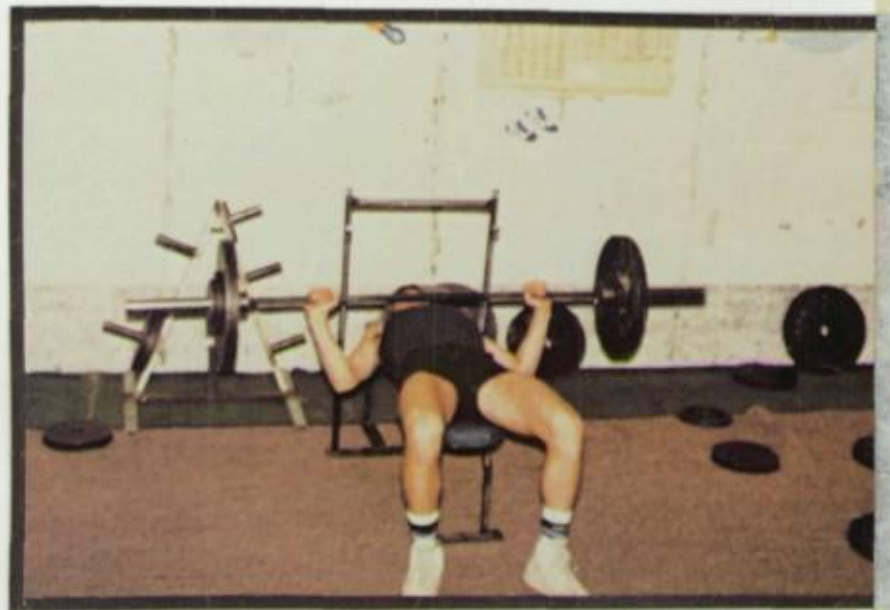

Joining the Grizzly on the broadcast booth in the gym, Ginger Rounds displays some double spirit.

Giving a kick of enthusiasm on "Sock Day," Cassie Olsen displays her pride.

All decked out to cheer the Senior Powder Puff Team on to victory are Doug Hart, Kevin Taggart, David Hansel, and Trent Phillips.

CS...Academics...Acad

High school is for learning and attending classes, right? Well, that may sound boring, but actually the academic life wasn't so bad! The wide variety of courses offered made it possible for a student to plan his high school years so that there was some fun in with the hard work. A student could lift weights one hour and then do a chemistry lab the next. He could cram for a semester test at night or kick back and go watch a game.

Course offerings allowed each student to specialize in his career interest or to take general courses until going to college. Some students took in all the education and immediately entered the working world after graduation and didn't plan on going to college.

No matter which way they chose to go, students could select from 151 different course offerings.

Finishing up some last minute homework at lunch is Cindy Butler.

Showing their support for the school, Booster Club members ride in the Homecoming Parade.

With a hardy swig, Dan Trube drains the bottle in a saloon scene.

Skyline students cheer as the I.F. Tiger goes up in flames.

Showing their satisfaction of their completed spirit wall at 12:30 a.m., seniors gesture their anticipated victory.

Singing "Happy Trails" to the captured Indian War Chief are junior Cowboys.

"S-E-N-I-O-R-S...Seniors are the very best!" chants Dava Keller and Todd Jenkins, along with fellow classmates at the end of the senior skit.

Eager to begin their quest for the "Golden Football," the "Knights of the Round Table" jump up from their chairs.

Junior "Saloon Girls" applaud as Junior Homecoming Royalty is announced.

Lip synching to the theme song, "Invincible," Jennifer Hoover jams with the microphone.

Rescuing the fair "Virginia Snow" from the Pocatello Indians during the Junior Homecoming Skit is "Studley Doright's Gang."

Streaming out onto the field with a 7-6 lead at the start of second half action, the varsity football team jogs through the spirit line to face the I.F. Tigers.

Working out with the bench press is Ty Morgan.

Clicking away during a timed writing is Jodie Kellog.

Enjoying the peace and quiet while studying in the school library is Paula Oakey.

Teaching David Ward and Cary Nukaya how to glue a butt joint is Industrial Arts instructor, Kent Frederickson.

Explaining a complication about a computer program to Morgan Brown, Shanna Stevens, and Illl Brown is Mrs. Nina Knapp.

Tuned Up

Students began to get involved in the community by participating in jobshadowing, taking vocational or occupational classes, starting a SADD program or doing aerobics to get (or keep) in shape.

Through career education, Marketing II or Office Co-op Procedures, students became aware of the variety of jobs they could prepare to fill.

Soon, they were working at fast food restaurants, supermarkets, schools or hospitals. Then some began thinking, "This could be the career for me."

Several students decided to start a local SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk) chapter. They held meetings, elected officers, showed "The Official SADD Story" to interested classes, presented an assembly with a national SADD representative and held an official SADD week.

To get in shape for baseball, prospective players got involved in aerobics from December 'til spring. Several teachers joined in to loose a few pounds or to keep in shape.

Whether seeking to prepare for careers or keeping in shape, students and teachers got involved in interesting and worthwhile activities.

Preparing paste-ups for advertisements is Rod Richardson, who jobshadows at The Post Register.

After school aerobics helps keep students and teachers in shape for sports during the winter months.

During higher education night several students listen to the representative from Montana State University.

Preparing a "Get-Well" balloon and flower arrangement at City Floral is Roxann Duncan.

Brainstorming with members of Skyline's SADD chapter is national representative, Bill Meehan.

Stocking the shelves of the school store during sixth hour Marketing II class is Todd Dameron, store manager.

Jobshadowing at Albertson's is Talisa Ringquist, who is bagging groceries for a customer.

Visiting the spirit of his dead wife (Jamie Anderson) in "Our Town" is her husband (Danny Denver).

Reading motorcycle magazines while his crutches prop him up against his locker during fifth hour is Pete Hahn.

Students of Mr. Don Harris' second hour American history class - Lance Parry, Eric Odell, David Ward, Mike Mill and Chad Phillips - work on a Civil War map for extra credit.

Trying to maintain good grades with the new graduation requirements, Gretchen McFee studies in the media center during lunchtime.

Pumping weights as Breck Crystal spots him is Darren Olsen in Mr. Larry Johnson's weight lifting class.

Orchestra class, practicing under the direction of Mr. Dave Hunter, was brought in during first hour to help students fulfill the humanities requirement.

Challenging

Starting with the Class of 1988, students will be held accountable for the "C" average rule. Students must maintain a GPA of a 2.0 or better in order to pass that grade level. The "C" average in core classes will total 14 credits: eight in English, four in math, one in speech and one in spelling.

"I feel that more students will enroll in summer school, correspondence classes, or night classes to be able to pass the new required classes," remarked Mrs. Carlene Herring, Skyline counselor.

If a student has a "C" average, but receives a "D" or "F" in a class, he may take it over. The students will receive the highest grade, but the credit will count only once.

"If a student is poor in math and receives a "D," then you better hope he is good in English and gets a "B" to enable him to have a "C" average," explained Mrs. Herring.

Juniors and seniors knew they would get by without meeting the "C" average mandate, but soon found out that they had some new graduation requirements. Seniors found themselves needing 42 credits, which included one semester of literature and one year of government added to their graduation list. Juniors were required to have 44 credits, which included one year of government and one semester of literature.

Extra Work

At first, taking on an extra class seemed exciting and new. But students and teachers soon found it to be a lot of extra work.

A seven-period day gave teachers an extra class for which to prepare, extra papers to grade and another classroom full of somewhat rowdy students. A few new teachers were soon called in to help teach some of the classes. Several teachers from last year found themselves teaching another subject.

Additionally, students found out that an extra class meant extra homework. Instead of 2-3 hours of homework per night, it rose to 3-5 hours.

"I dislike the seven-period day; it gives me another class to prepare for and extra work to grade," was often heard echoing from the teacher's lounge or the halls.

Students who cared about their school work had to drop some or their extra-curricular activities to be able to do their homework.

"Although I like school, I have found it difficult to keep up with all of my classes and the 90% attendance policy," was a common remark made by students while they were in a discussion with some teachers as they were talking about the pro's and con's of the seven-period day.

While most students enjoy going out at lunch, some students such as Becky Krupinski stay and study by their lockers.

While listening to the question of Mr. Dale Gullford's, students ponder their responses.

American history teacher, Mr. Richard Pattee, shows his class where to find social studies books in the 900 section of the library.

Stumped at how to prepare a diito is Jay Wilkinson, a teacher's aide.

Trying to find a particular encyclopedia for a report is Brad Foster.

Taking a break from the seven-hour day are Boog Clute, Mike Summers and Kirk Williams.

Studying in the library to keep up with all his classes is Rod Teel.

Student Life...S

Exchanging a friendly hug are Tom Musgrave and Andrea Merrill.

After finishing up their chemistry labs, Mike Bills, Mike Dawley, Doug Olsen, Troy Thomson, Todd Williams, Mike Barna and Corey Leatham check in the winter sports program to see if the next varsity game is at home.

Getting a good laugh at Jeff Bohl's clowning with a watermelon at the senior watermelon bust are Scott Fisher, Mike Sayer and Tom Kasnicki.

Dances, games, assemblies, Homecoming, lunch, dating, jobs, Germany exchange, Commencement, intramurals, elections, rivalries against cross-town foes, I.F....these were all a part of Student Life.

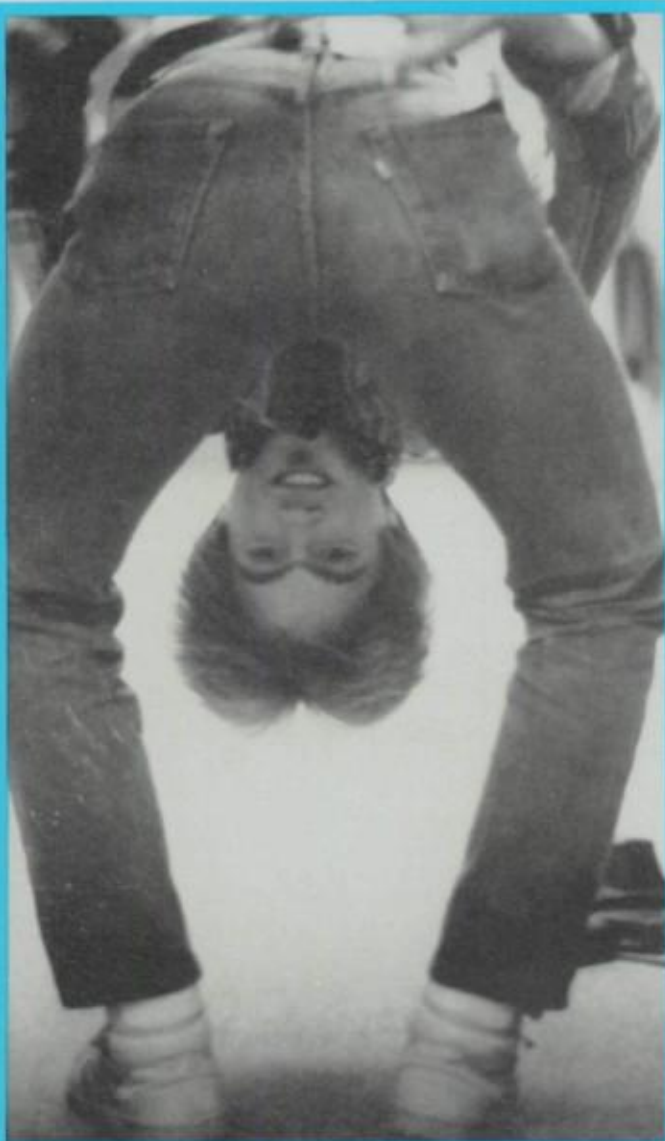

But during our life as a student, we had to crack down and hit the books, as well as spend time getting involved with our school.

There was always a game to go to, or an assembly to attend. There was always another dance to look forward to, with all the time spend with our fingers crossed that "the right" someone would ask us to be their date.

But most of all, student life was friendships. Old friends mingled with new acquaintances as students joined together in the different activities.

With a hearty yell, Kevin Taggart leaps into the air as he cheers for the senior girls Powder Puff team.

Seeing if a sophomore can get a better view from upside-down, Daniel Lawrence gives it a try.

Wrapped up against the cold wind, Robin Burrell, Vicki Patterson and Janna Howells watch the Powder Puff game.

Seniors Heather Hodges and Charlene Johnson study hard in their Western garb.

Spirited seniors Jean Nelson, Jody Walker, Jennifer Hoover, Wendi Bennett and Debbie Dauch wear Skyline jersies.

Homecoming week was full of dress-up days. Mon., Sept. 23 was Jersey Day. Girls borrowed the football players' jerseys and wore them to show their pride.

Tues., Sept. 24 was Cowboys and Indians Dress-Up Day. Students were encouraged to dress as Pocatello Indians or cowboys. A large portion of the student body participated. Skyline looked more like an Old West town than a high school.

Another dress-up day was held on Wed., Sept. 25. This day was a time for the separate classes to really show their spirit. Sophomores were asked to dress as super heroes, juniors were to dress in togas and seniors in Hawaiian apparel. The obvious winner of this competition was the Junior Class. Togas were seen everywhere.

Hey!

Indian maiden Rachelle Knight and cowgirl Trish Wilford don their Western wear for "Cowboys and Indians" Dress-Up Day.

Andrea Taylor, Tim Krsul, Doug Olsen, Todd Williams, Mike Barna, Corey Leatham, Trish Wilford and Rachelle Knight model their classic togas.

Participating in Jersey Day, juniors Amy Wood, DaNell Smith, Brook Barlow and Kristy Jensen mingle with friends in the commons.

Lookin' Good!

Class competitions added much to the Homecoming spirit. Many activities were held, with a vast number of students participating.

A stationwagon stuff was held at lunch on Mon., Sept. 23. Everyone met in the sophomore-junior parking lot to crowd into a stationwagon. First, the sophomores attempted to round up a sufficient numbers of classmen to pile in. The juniors stuffed in the most bodies they could. Seniors were the last class to compete, but were the most successful and won this competiton.

The front lawn was the setting for the tug-of-war on Tues., Sept. 24. Sophomores and juniors worked together on one side, with seniors on the other. Seniors won this battle of strength.

The final exciting competition took place on Wed., Sept. 25. The tricycle race pitted sophomores, juniors and seniors of similar weight and size against each other. As a result of the effort of two-time champion, Brian Shelton, the juniors were able to win this competition.

The overall spirit of Skyline prevailed. Even through the rigorous class competitions, students were able to unite as a school for some frolicking fun.

Girls' Fed officers, Rachelle Mecham, Julie Williams, Kathy DeMott, Annette Anderson and Jodi Karner are the "Fatties" in the senior skit.

Skit Morning was a great part of Homecoming week. Each of the three classes presented a skit on Wed., Sept. 25.

The skits were held in the gym, amidst the brightly decorated spirit walls. Seniors, with their castle, "Grizzalot," won the Spirit Wall competition.

Sophomores started the morning's entertainment with their astounding adaptation of a bedtime story. Their skit was entitled "Goldie Squaw and the Griz." They presented a fine show, but came in third in skit competitions.

An outstanding skit was presented by juniors. They portrayed a saloon scene and the fate of Skyline's head cheerleader, "Virginia Snow." Even after all of their hard effort and between 40-50 students taking part in their skit, juniors lost some points because they went overtime and had to settle for second place.

Seniors had the prize-winning skit of the morning. They earned first place with their show, "The Knights of the Round Table," and their quest for the "golden football." Naturally, "Sir Griz" prevailed, bringing honor to Skyline.

Junior royalty— Angie Ker, third attendant; Dayna Snarr, princess; and Julie Hobbs, first attendant. Sophomore royalty— Diane Stewart, first attendant; Emilee Taylor, duchess; and Ginger Crystal, second attendant.

Students engaged in a long week of class competitions. One of these competitions was the Homecoming parade.

Although there was a cold brisk wind, the parade wound its way around the two block square area of the downtown business area. About 15 entries were decorated with colorful crepe paper, balloons and plastic.

Seniors won first place, with King Grizzalot sitting high on his throne and a water fountain and a stabbed Indian near his side. Juniors came in second and sophomores were third.

After the parade, students went home to decorate their cars for the car caravan that was held before the game. The caravan started at Skyline, went down 17th Street and turned onto Holmes Avenue for Ravsten Stadium, sight of the football game.

After encircling the stadium with horn-toting vehicles, the screaming and yelling students witnessed their Grizzlies shutout the visiting Pocatello Indians in a 40-0 lopsided victory.

That night, Skyline ruled.

Getting set on the line of scrimmage, seniors get ready to make a big gain against the junior-sophomore line.

Team

Female football players battled it out on Skyline's field for a game of powder puff flag football action. Seniors took on the juniors and sophomores. Varsity players took on the role of coaches and cheerleaders. Cheerleaders Trent Phillips, Doug Hart, David Hansel and Kevin Taggart cheered, yelled and even did flips to support the female players.

Tina Bowen thought the game was great, as she stated, "I loved, it; I wanted to kill the sophomores and juniors. The tension was high because they were being killed and they knew it."

Bloody noses, fractured fingers and pulled muscles were the result of all that tension when it was released. The final score was 28-0, with the seniors being the rulers. Quarterback Barbie Gray scored all four touchdowns on identical left end sweeps for the seniors' four TD's.

Dancing

Having a great time at the Homcoming dance are Julie Hobbs, Kevin Taggart, Kellie Brooks and Dennis Johnson.

Music and laughter filled the air as students danced the night away to the music of Terry Danner on Sat., Sept. 28. The win over the Pocatello Indians added to the excitement of the Homecoming dance, put on by the Girls' and Boys' federations. Gretchen Meikle reigned as Queen, Dayna Snarr was Princess and Emilee Taylor was Duchess.

The theme of the dance was the song, "Invincible." Students danced in their semiformal attire in the commons area, which was decorated in sapphire, blue, hot pink and ivory.

During intermission, royalty was announced and the Sweepstakes Trophy was awarded to the seniors. The Class of 1986 won first place in all but two categories of class competition.

Refreshments for the dance were mints, cookies and punch. Tickets for the dance were $5 in advance or $6 at the door. Background for the pictures, which cost $6, was a scene overlooking a town with potted plants in the foreground.

Our Pride Soars

Holding balloons to be passed out during the I.F.-Skyline game are Cassie Olsen and Ginger Crystal.

Dressed up on Plaid Day for Spirit Week are Katie Jeffries and Barbie Gray.

Banners and flyers hung on the walls of Skyline High as students decorated for the big game with the Idaho Falls Tigers.

Spirit Week began with Sock Day on Monday. Students wore crazy unmatched socks to show their never ending spirit. The next day was Plaid Day. Even some of the teachers got into the spirit and wore plaid outfits. Kakie green was seen all around school for Camouflage Day on Wednesday. Thursday was "The Day After." Students depicted the Idaho Falls football players after the Grizzlies got through with them on Friday. They came to school rapped in bandages and pretending to have broken bones and black eyes. Blue and White Day and the pep assembly were held on Friday, the day of the game.

Great amounts of pride were shown during the pep assembly. Instead of the usual class yells and competitions, students pulled together as one united body to cheer for the varsity football team and to give them encouragement for the evening's "Emotional Bowl."

Harvest Ball was held on Sat., Nov. 2, from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. This girls' choice dance was co-sponsored by Future Homemakers of America and Industrial Arts Club. Many couples were there dressed in matching western wear.

Theme for the dance was "Mountain Music." Students enjoyed a mixture of modern, country and "oldies but goodies" music. The colors were purple, blue and orange. Root beer and "Chex Party Mix" were the refreshments.

Throughout the evening, couples were able to "git hitched" at one of the two marriage booths. For a mere one dollar, "wedded" couples received two rings and a marriage certificate valid until 11:30, the end of the dance.

During intermission, royalty was announced. Katie Jeffries was crowned "Annie Oakley" and Kevin Taggart was awarded with the title of "Wild Bill Hickock."

After-school jobs can be helpful and hateful. They can draw away from a person's social life, but the extra money could be put to good use. If a person does have a job, it gives him/her a sense of responsibility. Being on a job also gives a person experience working with people. This will increase one's self esteem.

Tina Bowen gave her feelings about having an after-school job. "I hate to rush through my homework in order to get to work on time. I also hate the late hours after work spent doing my homework."

"I hated it. The only reason I work is to pay for my car. I hate to rush home after school and get ready for work," was Nadine Wertz' opinion of having to work after school.

of Fun

On June 6, 21 students departed for Tettang, Germany. They were escorted by Frau Olga Rippel, German instructor for several years, and her husband. None of the group knew at the time of the trip that this would be Frau's last one. Because of health and family reasons, she decided in August that she wouldn't be able to continue teaching.

These students spent a month in Germany to enjoy fun and new experiences while attending school and vacationing. They attended German schools and lived with German host families.

One of the participants in the program, Dave "Beek" Hanson, said, "It was awesome! It gave us a chance to experience another culture and to respect the way other people do things."

Not only did these exchange students see Germany but also France. Some of the host families also took their American students to Italy, Switzerland and Liechtenstein.

The overall consensus was that the trip was a tremendous learning experience. Becky Krupinski, one of the exchange students, summed it up very well. "Going to Germany was an experience of a lifetime. I don't think I'll ever forget it."

Taking a rest from touring the Castle Linderhof are Jill Beck and Dave Hanson.

Some of the walls in the schools in Germany are decorated by the students.

The school year would have been terribly boring without assemblies. They added life and vigor to the school day, helped to increase school spirit and brought about student awareness and community support. Skits, contests, pep talks, and audience involvement contributed to the success of these assemblies.

Although assemblies were held mainly to cheer on the athletic teams, they also had other purposes. They gave the choirs and bands an opportunity to perform for the student body. Teddy Bears also presented several drill routines. Boys' and girls' federations put on a ski fashion assembly and the "Nearly Wed Game." The SADD organization brought in a national representative to help students become aware of the problems associated with drinking and driving. To show support of the CPR unit in the health classes, the Idaho Automobile Dealers' Association presented the school with a "real live doll" - "Annie," a mouth-to-mouth practice manikin.

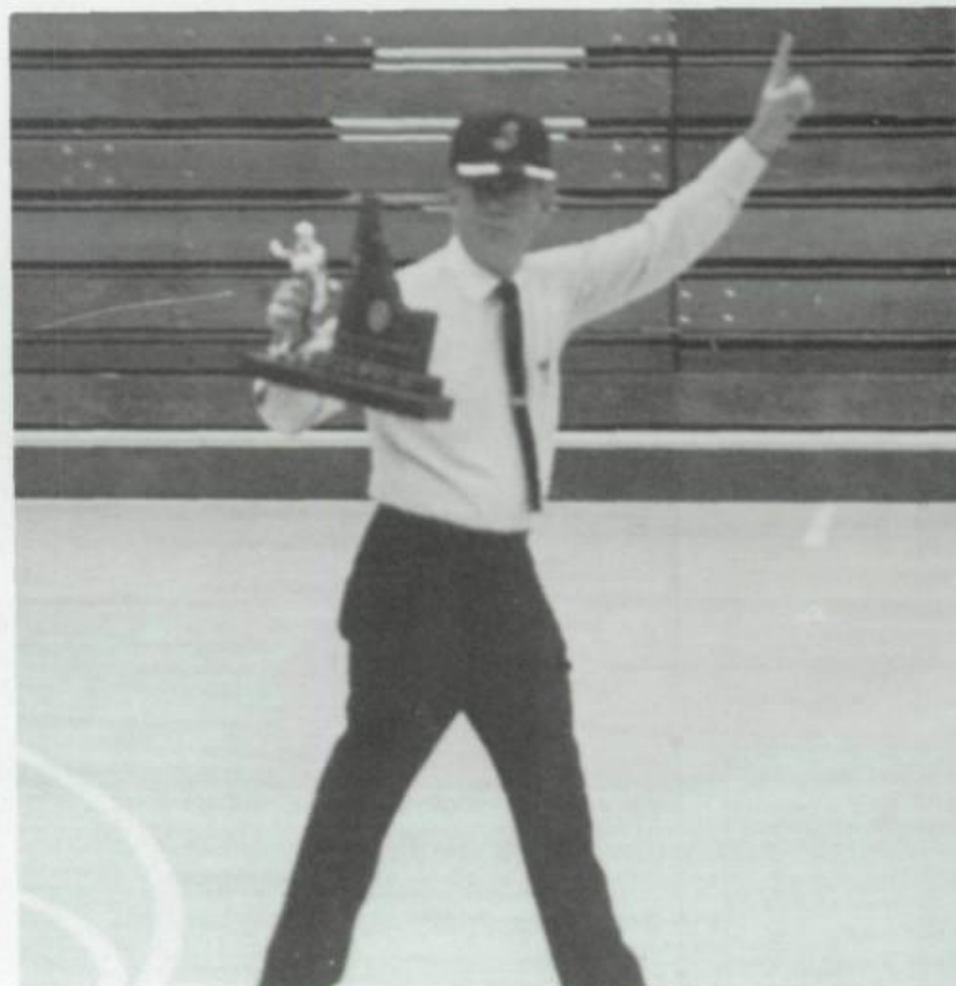

Perhaps the highlight of the assemblies was the one held to celebrate the State A-1 Div. II football championship. When Principal Lew Gourley carried the trophy across the gym floor, everyone went wild and pulled together to show their pride and spirit.

Decked out in his victory cap, Principal Lew Gourley struts into the gym as he carries the state football championship trophy during a pep assembly.

Getting Loose

Skyline students, dressed up in costumes, dance to the sounds of "Music Unlimited."

Being the center of attention, Wendi Bennett fixes her hair while Val Haddon and Debbie Dauch wait for her to finish.

Skyline's first morp dance was held on Sat., Jan. 11. It was sponsored by DECA.

Students were to go in costumes or in regular dress. The theme song was "Smoking in the Boys' Room." Decorations for the dance were posters of graffiti that read "morp," "hip-hop," "zoro" and "Smoking in the Boys' Room."

Pink, purple and blue streamers lined the ceiling and walls. Purple and blue balloons lined the walls and toilet paper criss-crossed through them.

As couples entered the dance, they wrote their names on slips of paper, which were deposited in a waste can. Names were later drawn from the waste can to announce the royalty. A mixture of punch and Sprite was the refreshment for the evening.

Hart took pictures and the music was performed by "Music Unlimited." Scenery for the pictures was a locker and a door next to it. A sign above the door simply read, "Boys' Room."

Goofing around in the hall are Corey Hunter, Erik Beal, Andrea Merrill and Bryan Stosich.

Easy

School wasn't all work and no play. Students made sure they got a rest from their classes during the school day.

There were many ways to wind down and take it easy. Roaming the halls was extremely popular. Some students even brought a couch to lounge on! Another popular meeting place for the students, of course, was the commons.

Others found different ways to fill their spare time. Goofing around in the classroom and drawing on the chalkboard were as popular as always. Students also made sure the phone was kept busy throughout the day.

There's no doubt that the students knew how to make school life fun and interesting. They made sure there was never a dull moment at Skyline High.

A Wonderful

Senior Ball Royalty - Doug Hart and Jennifer Hoover, 1st attendants; Greg Taylor, King, and Holly Jensen, Queen; and Ty Morgan and Barbie Gray, 2nd attendants.

Senior Ball was held on Sat., Dec. 21 in the Student Center from 9:30 to 12 midnight. Refreshments consisted of a 'frappe', a mixture of sherbert with Sprite, and Christmas cookies.

Decorations were green and red balloons and silver stars that hung from the ceiling.

Murals of Christmas scenes were placed around the hall and on the windows. The theme song was "The Most Wonderful Time of the Year." It was sung by a mixed senior ensemble during intermission.

Scenery for the pictures was a white sleigh set off by a foreground of snow-covered trees. Video music was performed by "The Express" and pictures were taken by Hart.

"It took a lot of work to decorate for the dance and then have to rush home and get yourself ready. I had a lot of fun. There was a little screen that music videos were played on (for the first time at a Skyline dance)," stated Janna Howells.

Time

Snow flies as a snowmobile jumps over a bank of snow.

Skyline is engulfed by banks of snow and columns of ice as an early winter hit the area in November.

During most of the school year, Skyline was in the midst of winter. Idaho winters are long and hard, but students always found a way to make it great. Many activities kept students preoccupied so they wouldn't stop and think about how cold it was.

One of the most popular activities was skiing. With all of the resorts nearby, students spent a lot of money enjoying their favorite sport. An avid skier, Jeff Bohi remarked, "The thrill of speeding down a hill gives one a feeling of freedom. It's great!"

Other exciting activities were snowboarding, skating and snowmobiling. Tina Bowen shared her feelings on snowmobiling, her favorite winter sport. "Snowmobiling is wonderful when you feel the powder fly around you while you go speeding through the trees and fields."

Many weekends were spent in these fun-filled sports.

Valentine's Day was a day for all to express their love. Flowers and gifts were everywhere, and love was in the air. Many students bought val-o-grams, along with cookies and flowers, from Girls' Fed.

The "Nearly Wed" game was held on the morning of February 14. The Girls' Fed. officers selected six couples and had a game in which the participants were asked to answer questions about their boyfriend or girlfriend.

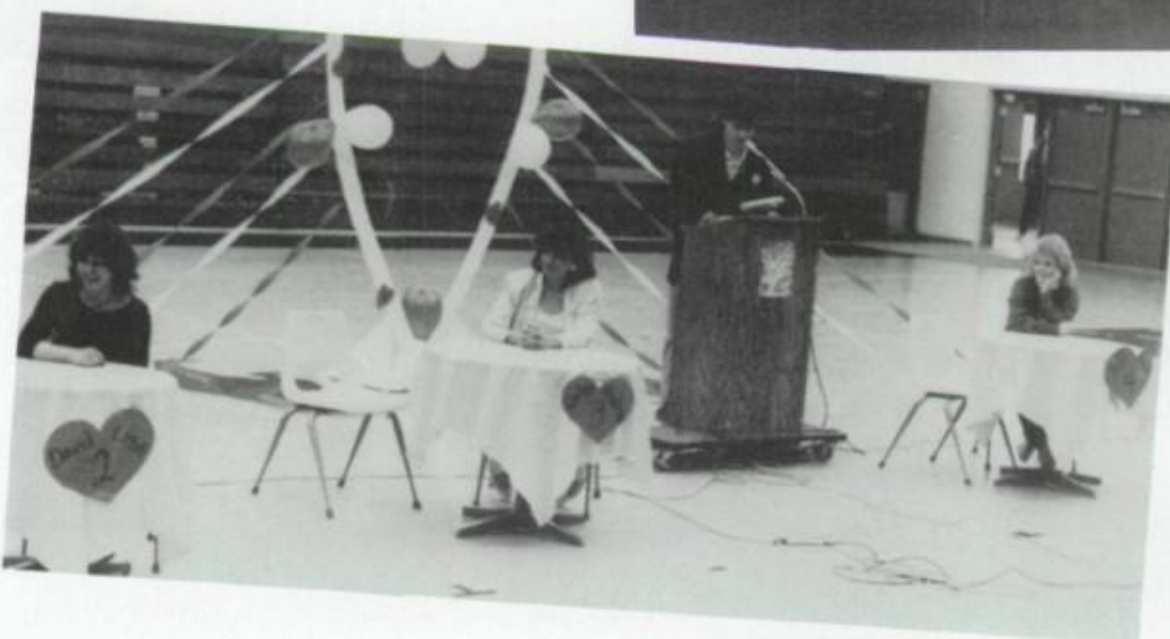

First place prize was a dinner for two at Jake's; second, a box of candy; third, a cake; fourth, a pizza; fifth, a macaroni and cheese dinner and sixth, a can of Campbell's soup.

After the regulation game and a tie breaker, two ties still existed. Emcee Andy Begley then "broke" the tie so students could get back to class. As announced, the placings were: first, Eric Wellman and Trish Willford; second, Doug Hart and Monica Andrus; third, Bryan Stosich and Brenda Newman; fourth, Garth Bradley and Andrea Merrill; fifth, Jeff Bohi and Angie Brower and sixth, David Hansel and Lisa Meikle.

Snow

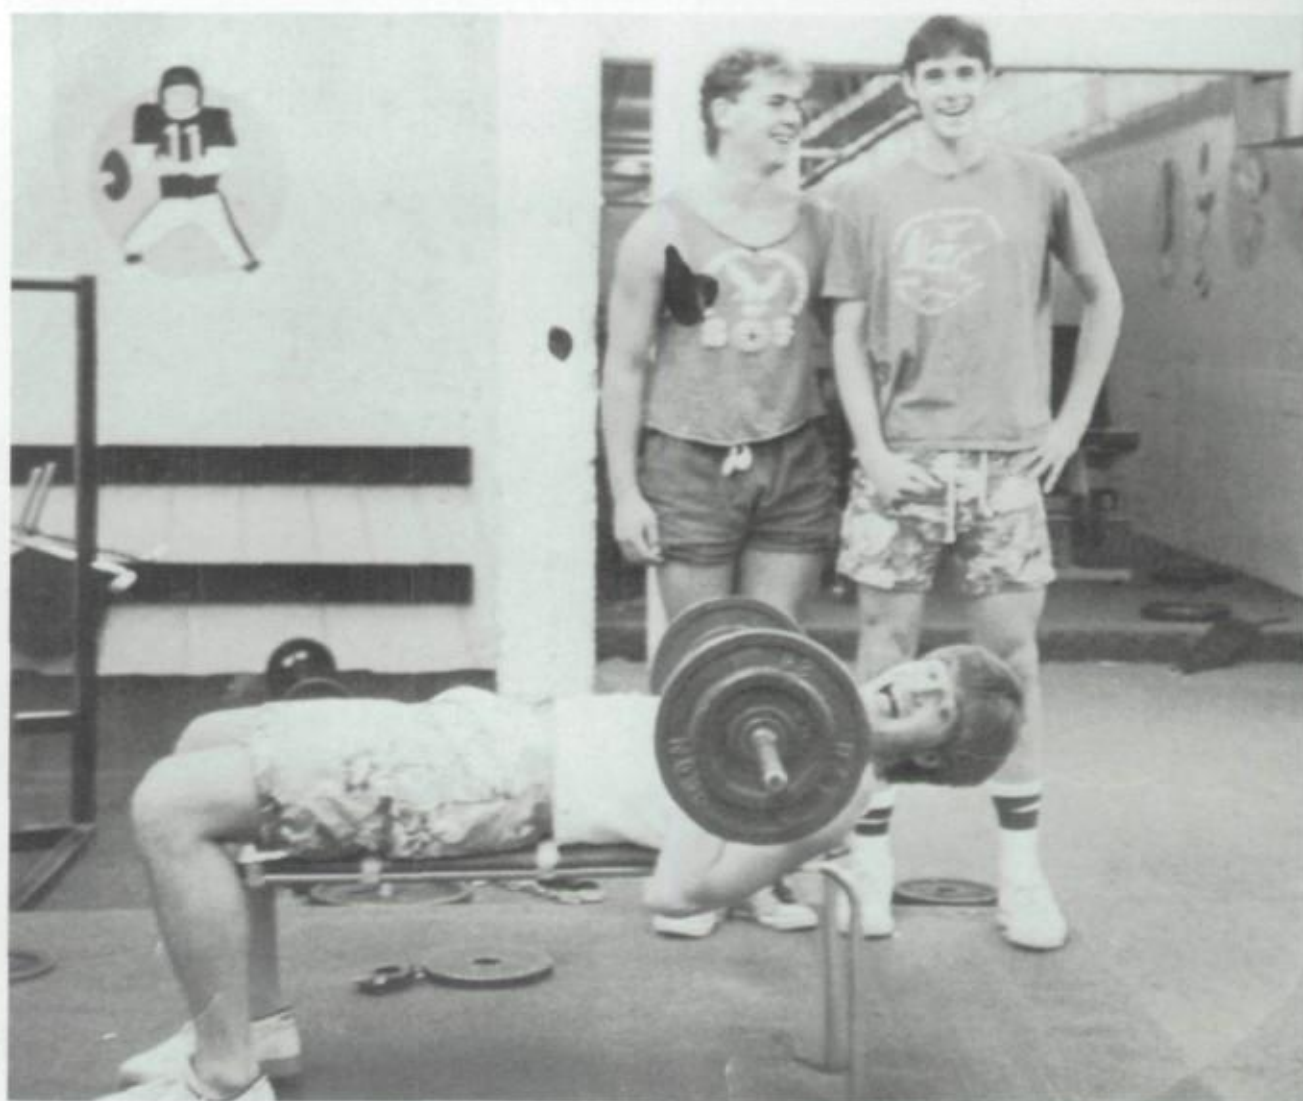

Spring fever struck Skyline soon after the snow melted. Everyone was ready for warm weather and good times. As soon as the temperature rose to 50 degrees, students ventured outside during the lunch hour for sun-tans and other activities. Skateboarding, bike riding, and cruising were just a few of the lunch time pastimes.

Many functions were held in the spring. Honor Society held its annual banquet in which new members were inducted and some seniors received five-semester pins. Skyline's basketball team attended the state tournament, and loads of loyal fans went to Boise to cheer them on. The Spring Fling dance, sponsored by the student body officers, also helped to make the spring enjoyable for all.

Spring is a time for relaxing and having a good time. This is the time of year when students and teachers want to be outside in the sun but are stuck inside going to school.

It is also the time of year when the most sluffs and absences are received by students taking a break from everyday required activities.

This spring, students were wearing Bermudas to school, but after a short time, they were told that shorts were against school regulations and couldn't be worn to school.

A lot of other types of spring clothes, such as tank tops and jump suits, could be seen through the halls. Also being seen was the ever popular "Miami Vice" look.

This year's fashions had a very casual look to them. Shirts went untucked, while pants and accessories were baggy. There was also the layered look, new-wave look and the classy look.

Shoes also played a major role in this year's fashion. There were criss-crosses, buckle-ups and slip-ons. Some students even wore socks pulled out on top of their jeans or stirrup pants.

Both guys and girls wore jewelry, which ranged from broaches to plastic stretch bracelets.

Anyone could tell by looking around that 1985-'86 was definitely the year to show individual styles.

Members of the Class of 1988 and other couples enjoyed the Sophomore Hop on Sat., April 12, from 8:30-11:30 p.m. in the Skyline Student Center.

The dance area was decorated in pink, yellow and white to set the spring atmosphere off. The main prop for pictures was a bicycle built for two. Pictures were taken by Hart Photography by Leon and taped music was provided by Terry Danner's "Music Unlimited."

A small but appreciative crowd of about 70 couples seemed to enjoy the dance, which had a theme of "Let's Go All the Way."

A wide variety of dress was worn by those in attendance at the dance.

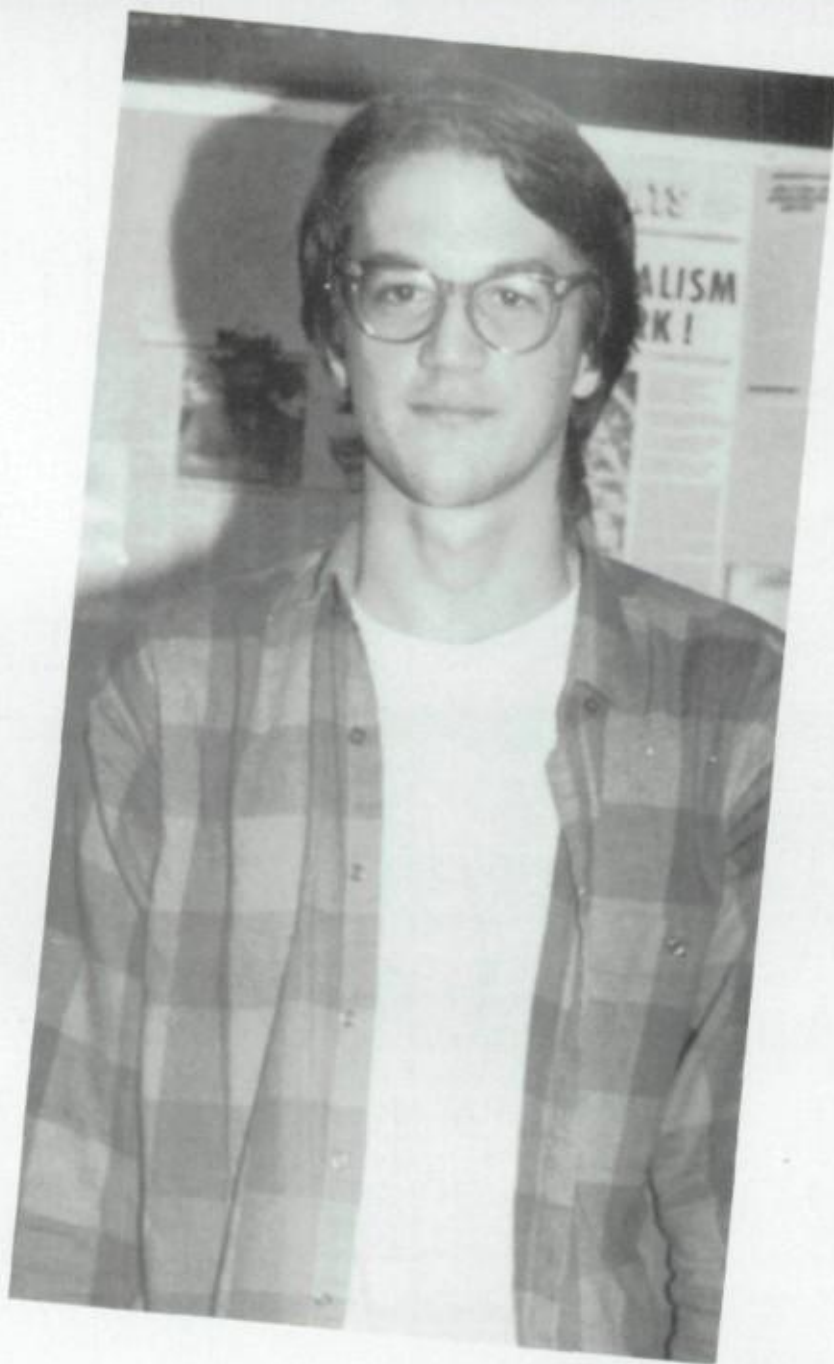

As Brad Johnston, Danny Marsh and Pete Hoskinson jump to the beat of the music, Val Haddon, Lisa Just, Marilyn Hatch, Amy Wood and Jennifer Hoover enjoy the action of the dance.

Students from all around the world gathered in Idaho Falls for an exchange program hosted by Idaho and their country, to spend a school year or just 18 days, such as the German exchange students did.

During their stay, the German exchange students visited many interesting places, such as Jackson Hole, Yellowstone National Park, and the nuclear reactor facilities location, in Idaho and the surrounding area. a total of 19 German Exchange students attended Skyline and five went to Idaho Falls High School.

Longer term exchange programs included six students - one from Brazil, three from Sweden, two from Japan, and one from Australia.

Junior Prom was held Sat., night, April 26, in the Skyline Student Center from 8:30 to 11:30. Tickets were $5 in advance and $6 at the door.

Colors for the dance were a combination of pastels - pink, yellow, baby blue, light green, lavender and white - with balloons in the center of the dance area. The theme for Junior Prom was "This Could Be the Night."

King and Queen of the dance were Vince Bateman and Tracy Hoover. The music was played by "Music Unlimited" and pictures were taken by Hart Photography by Leon.

Although a few tuxes and long formals were worn, the dress was advertised as "Sunday best." Approximately 100 couples were in attendance.

Pictures were $6 and the scenery for the pictures was a black backdrop and a white love seat and a table with a pink flower on it next to the couch.

The Students'

Newly elected officers of 1986-87 - Dan Trube, public relations director; Rudi Lewis, president; Tim Krsul, vice-president; Pete Savin, secretary; Julie Hobbs, cheerqueen; Andrea Taylor, business manager; Kristy Jensen, historian; Emilee Taylor, school board rep. and Farhana Zalda, school board rep.

Congratulating Julie Hobbs is Barbie Gray, outgoing cheerqueen.

Campaigning for student body offices started off with the primary elections during the week of April 28 through May 2. Since there were not enough candidates, little campaigning and no elections were held. General campaigning and elections followed during the next week and were highlighted by contests for two offices.

The first three days of the week were days of campaigning and getting the students to vote. The third day was the election assembly where the candidates gave speeches and even threw candy into the audience. Little skits were also put on to promote the candidates for cheerqueen.

Candidates for next year's student body officers were Rudi Lewis for president; Tim Krsul, vice-president; Pete Savin, secretary; Dan Trube, public relations manager; Andrea Taylor, business manager; and Farhana Zalda and Emilee Taylor for school board representatives. These candidates all ran unopposed. Chris Carroll and Kristy Jensen both ran for the position of historian, with Kristy being the winner. Monica Andrus and Julie Hobbs ran for cheerqueen and Julie came out the winner in that contest.

The newly elected officers were announced and given their position by the 1985-86 officers during the Inaugural Assembly on May 9.

Various dances were held throughout the school year for students. These dances consisted of victory dances, a Hawaiian beach party dance, "Spring Fling," tri-school dances and a toga dance.

The dances were sponsored by different groups and clubs throughout the school such as Teddy Bears, journalism, DECA, Mat Maids, cheerleaders and student government.

Some of the dances had pictures taken at them so students could have the choice of getting pictures taken with a group of friends or as a couple. Dance tickets were generally two dollars and pictures were taken by Kings Image and Hart Photography by Leon.

During the year there was an abundance of plays, choir concerts, and band concerts.

The choirs, under the direction of Steve Newton, performed many concerts for assemblies, banquets, and festivals. Chamber Choir had a Division One rating.

Bands, directed by Bob Dunmire, also performed many concerts for community activities and competitions.

Drama hosted plays such as "The Sneeze" and "It's Cold In Them Thar Hills," for school and for the community.

Students and other community members enjoyed watching and listening to the talented members of the Skyline band, choir and drama groups.

Students at Skyline High School were not only serious in class, but sometimes had a lighter side to them that could be seen at lunch, after school, at the various sports events or sometimes even in class.

Everyone needed a break from school...a break that, when it was needed, there was not much that could be done to stop the relaxing atmosphere whenever it took over.

There was the side of students and teachers at the games. That's when they could get wild...and loud...and crazy. And they could do this without being told to calm down. That's when Skyline spirit really shone through.

Fun

The 1985-86 year was filled with many disastrous events. Terrorism was wild, claiming many innocent victims' lives throughout the world. The United States found evidence to show that the Libyan dictator, Moammar Khadafy, was training and supporting the terrorists. As a result, the United States bombed some Libyan cities. Many people were scared that an all-out war might come out of this situation. Many Skyline students, especially 18-year-olds, were frightened that they might end up fighting in a war with the Libyans.

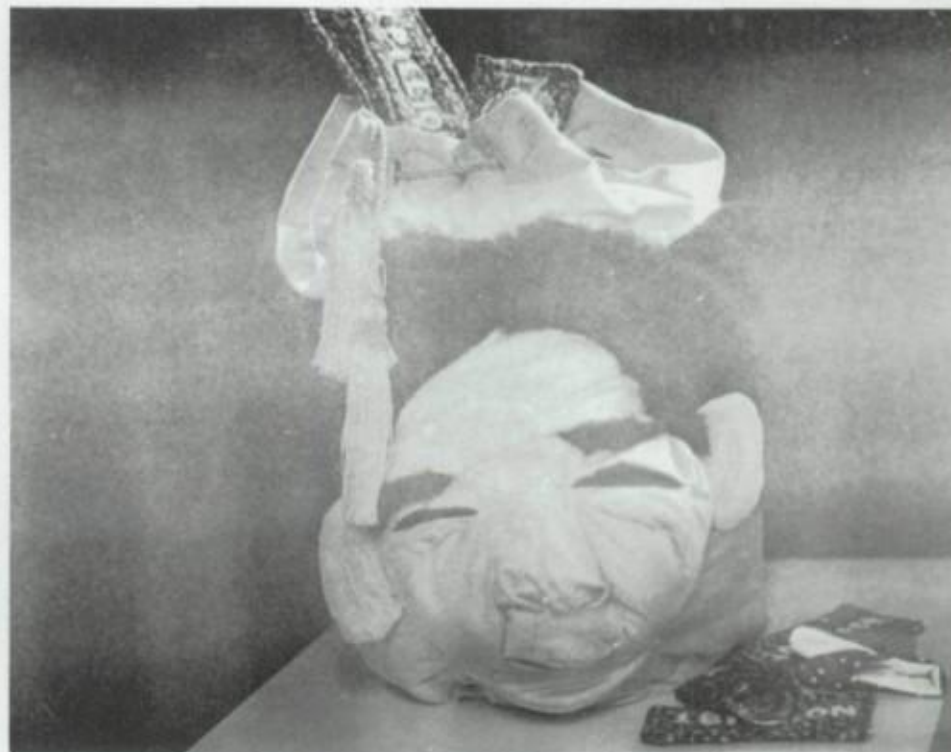

Another world leader became despised by many teachers and students. Ex-President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Phillippines was forced to leave his country because of his illegal dealings with the country's money and violation of civil rights. Jokes and cartoons about him could be found almost anywhere.

The most tragic event of the year came when the space shuttle Challenger blew up in January, killing the seven astronauts aboard. Everyone was extremely shocked, especially when they saw the first teacher to ride the shuttle was killed on the flight.

A bright side to the events was also evident. Gas prices sunk to the lowest they had been in years. The school year opened up with the average price of gas being $1.25 a gallon and ending up at 75¢. Students rejoiced at being able to pay an average of $5 less for a tank of gas.

With the gym packed full of spectators, Dan Trube goes up for a shot early in the first regular season IF-Skyline game. A giant poster and the pasted-on numbers on the scoreboard were IF's way of rubbing it in that, although we took state, they had beaten us in the regular season football game.

Firecrackers go off with a "bang" from inside of the paper mache tiger as it burns in the Spirit Week bonfire.

Cross

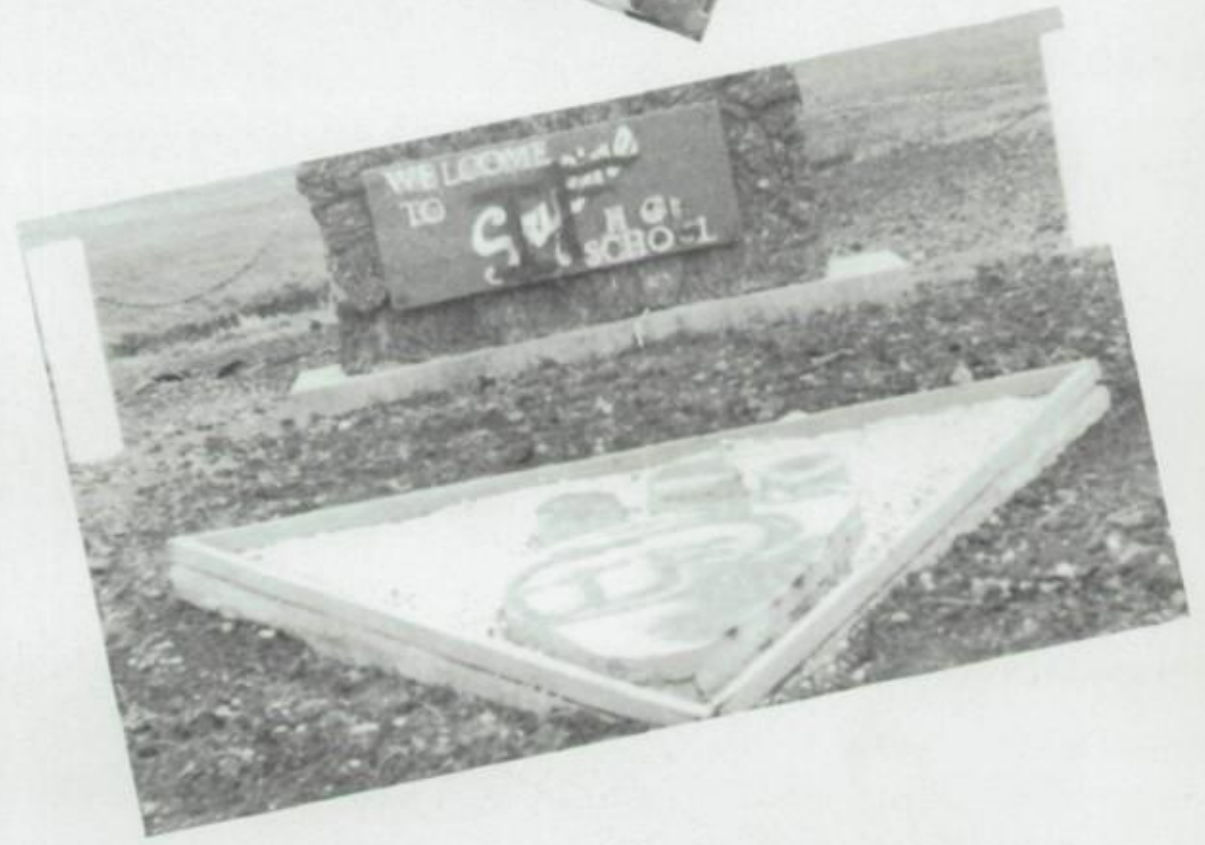

Blue and Orange...they're opposites on the color wheel and they also represent bitter cross-town rivals. For the past 20 years, we have carried on a continuous struggle with Idaho Falls High School to show who's the best in everything or anything.

Crowds with posters; balloons; spray-painted faces, hair and signs; students with newspapers or painted pumpkin faces filled the stands as the opposing team was introduced. Spirit weeks, bonfires to "burn" the paper mache mascots, or marquees spread the spirit messages to all who passed by.

Sometimes, school spirit and pride took on more drastic antics. Several times, we've had orange and black messages spray-painted on our school. We've had the lower jaw of the bear of our marquee blown off, our school toilet papered, car windows busted and the marquee painted with black obscene messages.

But Skyline students weren't angels, either. We've bleached the center of the football field with a big "SHS," dyed the snow blue in front of their school, painted the goalposts blue after we beat them in the district football tournament (even though they defeated us in the regular season game) and burned an "SHS" in their front lawn.

This year, we also tried to rub our victories in IF's face in safer ways. The Booster Club had a huge banner painted that read: "16-0 State Champions, Now That's Reality." Our basketball team recorded the State Champ Shuffle" and Q-99 aired it on their station until IF Booster Club members called up to complain.

Town Rivals

Seniors took a day off on Tues., May 20. They spent their well-deserved Senior Sneak at Lagoon Amusement Park, north of Salt Lake City, Utah. In order to reach Lagoon in time for plenty of fun, the five busloads left the school at 6 a.m. After reaching the amusement park, the students were turned loose to roam it at will.

Not only did the seniors enjoy the vast assortment of rides, but also other exciting things. They cooled off from the 90 degree temperatures with delicious ice cream and slushes. Pioneer Village offered a variety of shops, including an old-time photography studio, to browse through. Many students put on old time western wear to have a picture taken.

The day's activities were a total success, despite the fact that several cars were vandalized in the senior parking lot while the drivers were gone. Most seniors seemed to agree that they had a fun-filled day at Lagoon. They arrived back in Idaho Falls between 6:30 and 7 p.m.

Again'

The Class of 1986 made their Senior Sob assembly unforgettable. The master of ceremonies was Ron Perrenoud. The graduating seniors reminisced the last three years. They relived their sophomore year, 1983-1984, with the help of the MC's Robyn Ricks and Mike Krsul.

As sophomores, the seniors remembered most Kevin Taggart doing a 140 push-ups on initiation day. They experienced their junior year, 1984-1985, with the help of Linda Hogg and Brad Foster. In their junior year, they remembered the arrival of their new principal, Lew Gourley. They looked back on their current year, 1985-1986, with the help of Jan-na Howells and Mike Willis. As seniors they remembered going to State in football and basketball.

The seniors projected slide shows of some of their fondest memories that they had taken during the years past. They ended the two hours and fifteen minute assembly by singing the school song.

Time

Senior Luncheon was held on Thurs., May 29, at 1:30 at the Westbank Restaurant. After lunch was served, the senior survey results were read and graduates were further entertained by Coach Jim Lewis' talk.

On Mon., June 2 a graduation party was held after commencement. It lasted from 12 midnight 'til 5 a.m. for the 217 of the 232 graduates who attended. Guests were given one-half hour to enter and once they left, they couldn't re-enter.

Fake money, for gambling at casinos, was given to the participants as they entered the door. Students had fun losing or winning $1-$90,000 just for the fun of it. The money won at gambling was used to buy things at an auction held later that night (morning).

Non-stop dancing was also a choice of fun. Music was played by a group from Boise called Salt and Pepper. They also had a laser light show.

There was food, ping pong, video games, bowling, pool tables and door prizes such as ghettoblasters, cedar chests, head phone sets and even a gag gift of toilet paper. Breakfast was served at five and then the graduates went home to crash for awhile. A few of the brave ones were back at school to visit after just a few hours of sleep.

Seniors and their parents earned money for this party by having car washes, rummage sales, selling hot dogs at Albertsons on Broadway and accepting cash donations. Seniors had to pay only $5 for all the entertainment and food they could devour in the five hours at the Elks.

Commencement Dance was held on the evening of Fri., May 30 from 9-12 p.m. at the Elks' Lodge. Girls' and Boys' federations sponsored the dance, traditionally the last one of each school year.

A live band, "Strait Edge," provided terrific music. Everyone had a blast dancing in the ballroom, which was decorated in red, silver and white. Only seniors and their dates were allowed to dance during the playing of the theme song, "This is the Time."

During intermission, flowers were presented to Mr. Lew Gourley, principal; and Mr. Dave Nelson, assistant principal, by Annette Anderson, president of Girls' Fed. Rachel Mecham sang a lovely melody written by Debbie Black, an I.F. senior. It was entitled "Golden Memories That Will Last a Lifetime." Refreshments were eclairs and pink punch. Senator James B. McClure, (R) Idaho, addressed the graduates and their guests at Baccalaureate Exercises on Sun., June 1, at 4:30 p.m. in the Civic Auditorium.

The invocation was given by Lorette Green after which Concert Choir sang "Contate Domino" and "Sing Unto God." Andy Begley then gave the scripture reading. A group of 12 seniors (Nathan Dustin, Barbie Gray, Doug Hart, Linda Hogg, Dana Keller, Mike Krsul, Shawnie Larsen, Sarah Liljenquist, Rachel Mecham, Steffani Monson, Melissa Park and Kevin Taggart) sang "Now The World Is Yours." The introduction of the speaker was given by Michelle Thiel. The benediction was given by Paul Anderson. Processional and Recessional for both Baccalaureate and Commencement was played by Faye Andrus.

A total of 234 seniors graduated in Commencement Exercises on June 2, 1986 at 7:30 p.m. The program started off with the invocation given by Tami Daniels. Chamber Choir sang, "Shenandoah" and "A Gaelic Blessing." Although there were five valedictorians all couldn't speak, Brad Hindman and Sarah Liljenquist were chosen by the teachers to speak. Superintendent of Schools Jerry Jacobson made some remarks and Senior Class President, Bob Copyak gave his In Retrospect speech. Principal Lewis J. Gourley also gave remarks. Awarding of diplomas were handed out by Ray Hart, Chairman and Dr. Gerald Mill of the Board of Trustees. The Class of 1986 then sang the school song and formed the SHS. The benediction was given by Doug Hart.

Clubs... Clubs... Clubs...

Changing with the times, clubs come and go with the flow of student interest. New clubs form every year while others fizzle out, yet there are always a large number that continuously remain in action.

Two of last year's 47 clubs became inactive this year. Math Club died out due to lack of interest. FFA discontinued because that class wasn't offered this year, but 14 students individually participated in the competitions. Ski Club came back after a year's absence and a motorcycle club sparked an interest but wasn't organized because the school couldn't risk the threat of a liability suit or afford insurance for the members.

This year's total of 46 clubs kept busy promoting fundraising items that ranged from shirts, jewelry and posters to junk food, pens and liquid soap. They spent their money that they raised to go on trips and throw banquets or parties. The German Club used their fund-raiser money to help support their German exchange for the fourth year. All in all, the many clubs were kept on the go, with their time and money well spent.

On Their Toes

"We tried to get everyone involved. When everyone is behind something, it goes far; and we proved that! Together, we put Skyline back where it belonged - at the Top!" exclaimed Barbie Gray, cheerqueen.

The varsity squad attended the NCA summer cheerleading camp at ISU. Skyline won four spirit sticks and four superior ribbons. They received the "Most Spirited" award and were awarded a certificate of "Excellence."

In order to support Skyline activities, they held bake sales, car washes and victory dances. Through it all, they had fun times, according to Barbie.

"Hard working, dedicated and spirited described our Skyline High School Cheerleaders," claimed Barbie as she summed up her cheer squad's activities.

Pin 'em!

Cheering the wrestlers on at all home and away matches and tournaments kept the Mat Maids busy. They traveled to Minico-Box Elder, Utah and Green River, Wyoming tournaments. They also went to the State A-1 Tournament in Coeur d'Alene.

Mat Maids kept score, served as hostesses, ran errands and presented awards at the Tiger/Grizzly Invitational in January.

They decorated rooms at home, locker and practice rooms at school and put up spirit signs around the school.

To raise money, Mat Maids sponsored two victory dances. They also sold orange juice at home wrestling matches.

Activities were coordinated by the Mat Maids officers: Shanna Stevens, president and Jennifer Hoover, treasurer.

Hard Work

Teddy Bears competed in two major competitions and presented several halftime and assembly shows.

Teddy Bears were in the middle division of the minidome competition and were one of the 14 schools participating.

To prepare for the competitions, Teddy Bears spent two months practicing the routine.

Teddy Bears brought home a second place division trophy and the award for congeniality.

During the school year, the Teddy Bears performed in the 4th of July parade, Homecoming parade, halftime shows, the Christmas assembly and some pep assemblies. They also attended a competition held in Boise in April.

Putting in Their Time

Going out to breakfast before school wasn't the only thing that Boys' Federation did; they also sponsored several assemblies and dances.

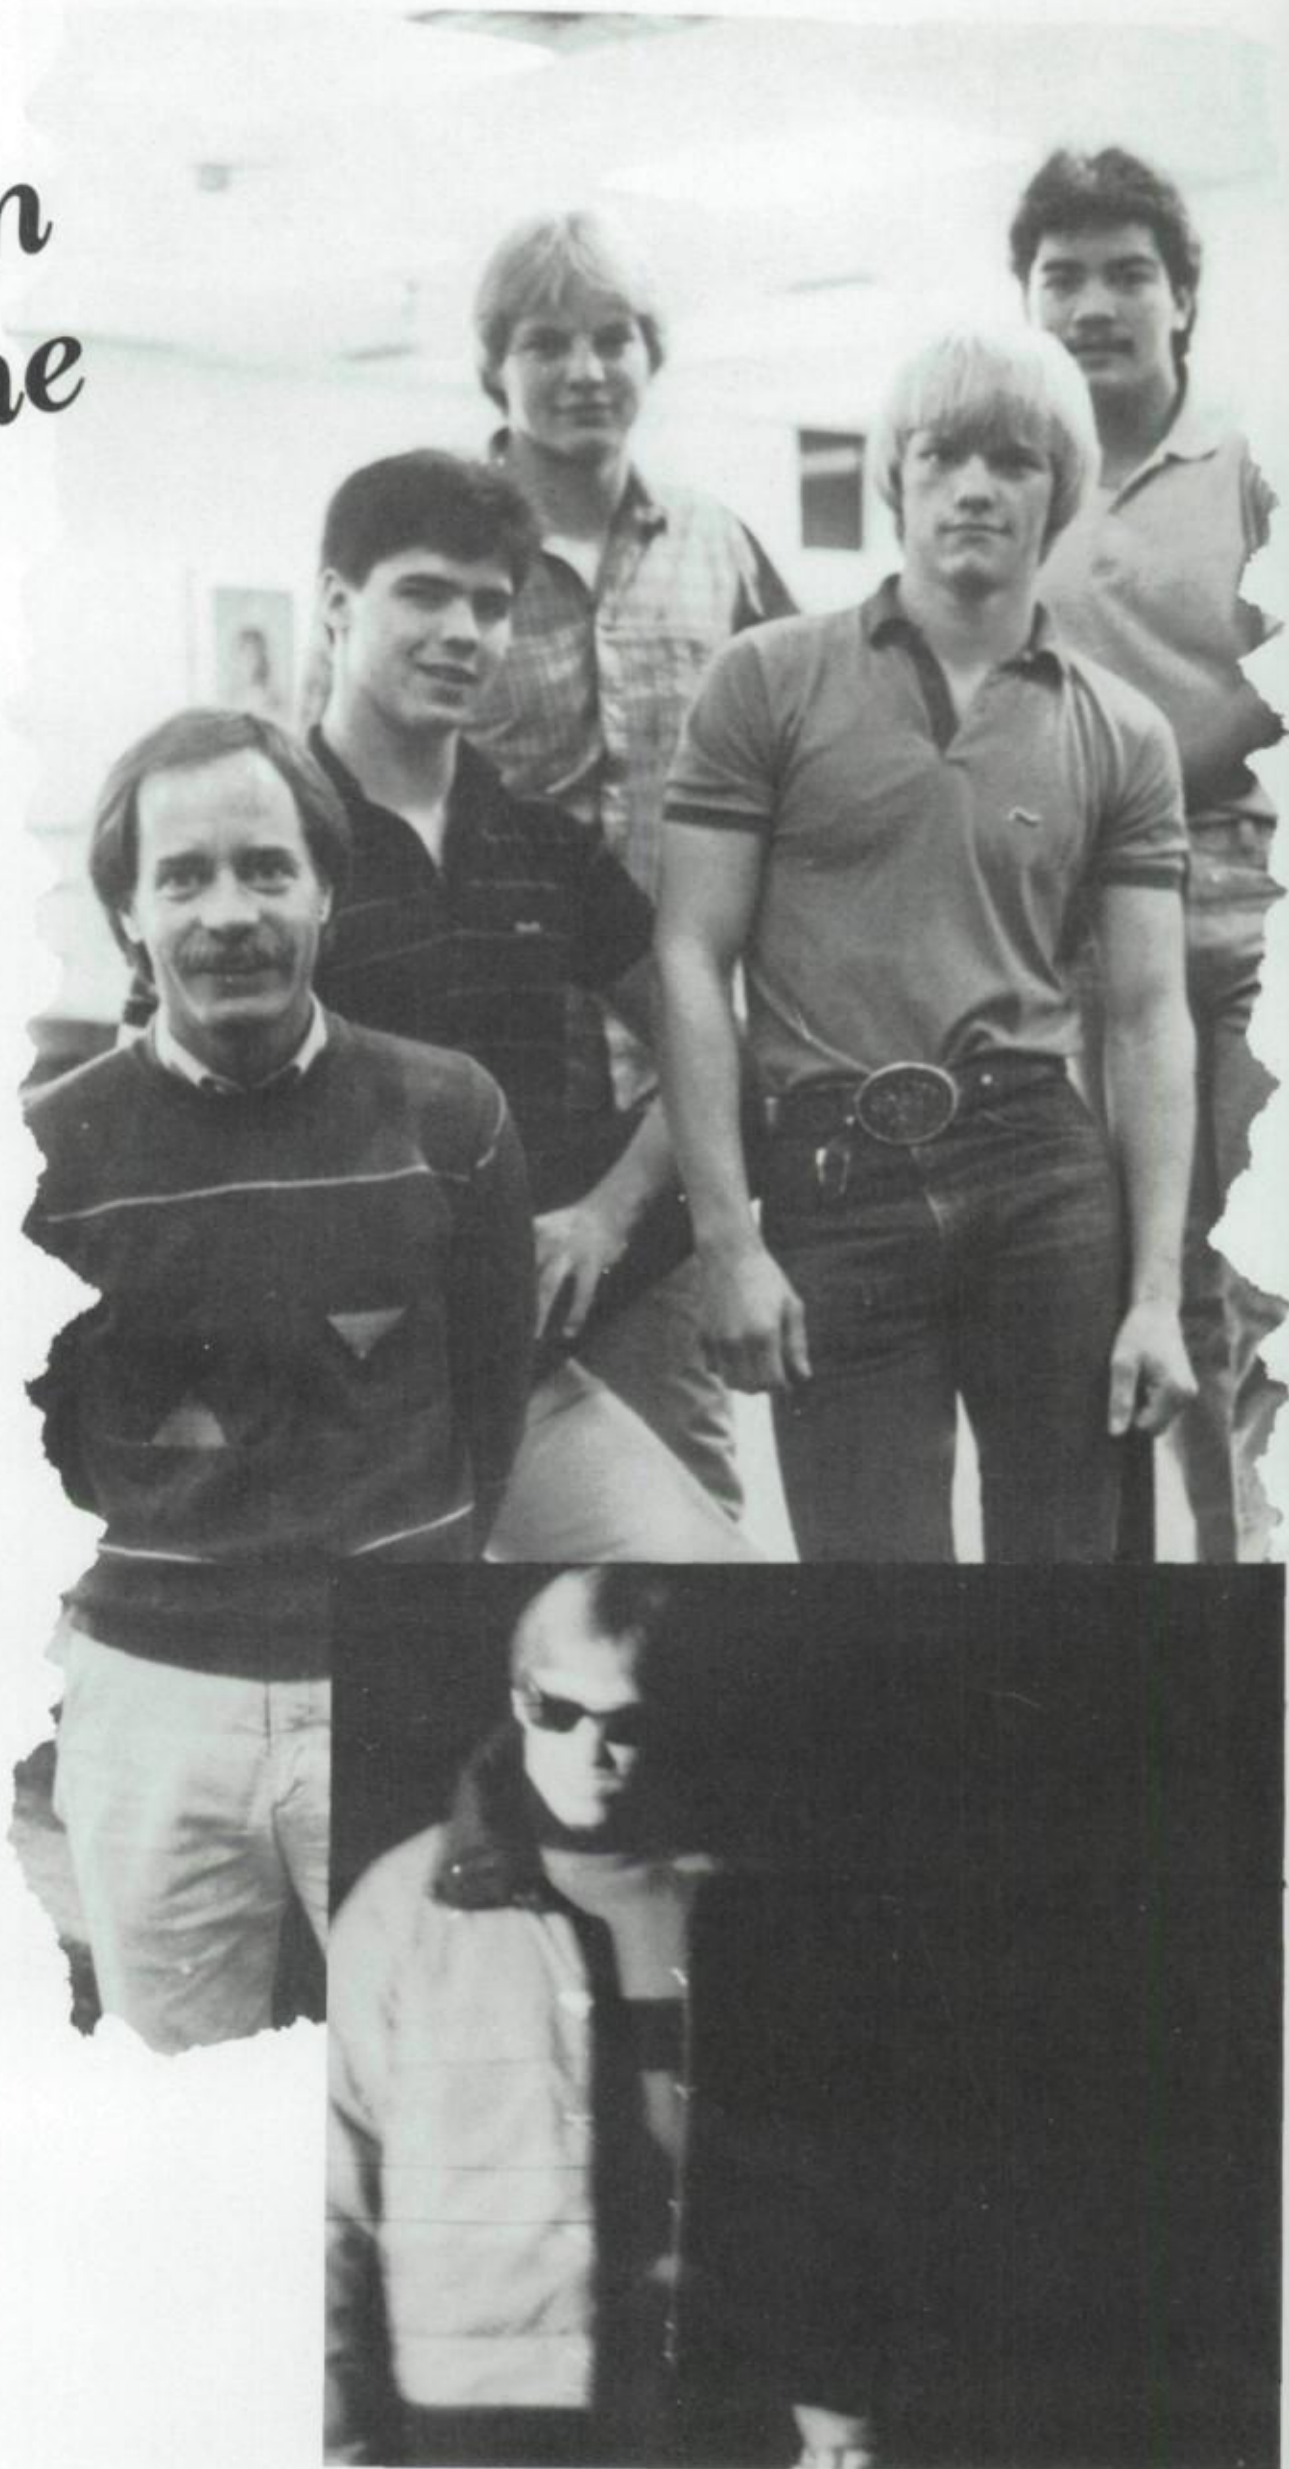

Putting their time into homecoming, the officers worked with Girls' Fed. to plan the week of spirit and most of all, the Homecoming Dance.

Their next big project was to put on their annual ski assembly. This involved finding and ordering a famed Warren Miller ski movie and convincing local merchants to let students borrow and model ski apparel. "It was hard to get stores to let students borrow their clothes," commented David Hansel, BF president.

Putting on the Christmas assembly was next, and then, to wind up the year, they co-sponsored the Commencement Dance, one of the biggest dances of the year.

An Awesome Opportunity

"Girls' Federation gave us the opportunity to serve the girls of Skyline High School and to help make the 1985-86 school year great! We tried to involve the entire school in our activities and to create a sense of unity amongst the students and faculty," stated Annette Anderson, Girls' Fed. president.

Girls' and Boys' Feds co-sponsored Homecoming week, the Christmas assembly, Valentines' assembly and Commencement dance.

The girls also held a Sophomore Tea, a Spring Fashion show, sponsored the "Girl of the Month" tribute and sold val-o-grams. A new activity was the "Miss Skyline Pageant."

Summing up Girls' Fed. activities, Tawna Stosich exclaimed, "Awesome!"

Bright Ideas

Student Council is made up of elected members from each homeroom. They meet once a month during first hour, go over old business and present new business.

Scholastic Team finished off the year with an outstanding record of four wins against only one loss. Unfortunately, the loss was during the first match of the season, so eliminated the team from the championship. In the final match of the year, Skyline beat out South Fremont, 75-35, to capture the fourth place consolation prize.

"They have upheld their traditional way; these ladies and gentlemen would be winners irregardless of a score in a contest," stated Mr. Garry Brown, one of the two advisers.

A Boost to the Top

After putting on a successful membership drive, Booster Club helped several different departments - like band, debate, art, math, journalism - besides sports.

Of course, Boosters continued their support of sports. They distributed colorful balloons at Grizzly/Tiger athletic contests. After the football team won the State A-1 Div II championship, they bought a gigantic banner, which read: "16-0, State Champions, now that's reality" to hang occasionally in the gym. They also hosted athletes at the sports awards banquets.

But Boosters also helped with the Sister City Program. They bought equipment for the math and art departments. They helped finance student participation in competitions. They provided chaperones for dances and trips.

Because money was needed for different club projects, quilts were raffled off with tickets sold at home games.

Balloons with "Skyline Grizzlies" printed on them were sold at home football games.

Boosters prepared a float on a truck to ride in the 4th of July Parade and also the Homecoming Parade.

We've Got Spirit

Spirit Club was revitalized with 30 members this year. This was quite encouraging, since the group almost died out because of the lack of interest last year.

"Spirit Club made our school look good because there was support at the many different games," commented Vicki Poulter. Kelly Davis added that "Spirit Club was great because it showed how much spirit out school had."

Coach Brian Ricks commented, "I feel that Spirit Club was a very important aspect of any athletic competition. They helped motivate the athletes to victory. I also feel that there should be a Spirit Club for the whole school, not just for the athletic teams."

Performing

Marching Band and Flag Team performed together in the Homecoming parade and half-time shows during the football season.

They topped their year off by going to the Gem State Invitational held in Pocatello. They competed against bands from Blackfoot, Bonneville, Highland and Twin Falls.

"We did well," was Director Bob Dunmire's comment about the performance at the Invitational.

Touch of Class

Among many other things, Skyline's Jazz Band went to Moscow to participate in the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival, perhaps the biggest one of its kind west of the Mississippi, in February. They also hosted their own jazz festival, featuring the Mike Richmond Jazz Trio on April 12.

Pep Band participated mainly at the football and basketball games and pep assemblies. They helped to liven up the games and the crowd with their lively tunes. They traveled to the State Basketball Tournament as part of the support group from the school.

Notes Blend in Concerts

One of the highlights for instrumental music groups this year was the combining by concert band and string orchestra during the Christmas Concert. This full group performed two finale numbers. Besides the winter concert, concert band presented one during the fall and spring.

Band members also participated in various fund-raising projects to get some money to help pay the cost of going to Moscow during the last part of February.

Orchestra was given a boost this year when it was added as a class during first period. This came about when more electives were needed to fill the schedule in the seven period day.

Choir Tours

A whirlwind trip through the Pacific Northwest was the main highlight of Chamber Choir's activities. They went to Boise, Portland, Olympia, Seattle and Spokane over the Easter vacation. On the way back to Idaho Falls, they returned by way of Missoula and Butte. The group left on Thurs., March 27, after school and returned to Idaho Falls around 2:30 a.m. on Tues., April 1, the day school resumed.

They traveled with Idaho Falls High School. The two groups performed both separately and together during each concert. They gave nine performances in five days.

During their stay in Seattle, Washington, choir members visited the majestic Space Needle.

Recognizing Excellence

To join the National Honor Society, one must receive a grade point average of a 3.5 or better.

Thirty-six new members were welcomed in at the banquet held March 3rd where Principal Lew Gourley presented nineteen member with their five-semester pins. Guest speaker at the banquet was Mr. Lyle Taggart, Booster Club president.

In January, Honor Society had a service project where members collected canned foods and donated them to a food bank. In May, they enjoyed a spring activity.

Champion Debaters

"Skyline has had an excellent debate squad during the '85-'86 season," stated Mrs. Vickie Christensen, debate adviser.

Debaters placed first in the Skyline/I.F. Invitational. At the Bonneville, I.S.U., and B.B.C. Invitationals, the Novice Division (first year debaters) won first place. In the Gem State Debate, Skyline placed first in the Open Division and third place in the Championship Division.

Debaters who went to State were: Leslie Evans and Sue Sermon, Kim Evans and Meg Golden, Ralph Dimenna and Shane Brown, and Christian Shull. Skyline was the only school to have novice debaters go to state.

Espanol Fiestas

To help raise money for their activities Spanish Club members sold M & M's and advent calendars.

Some of the activities that Spanish Club held were a costume and pizza party for Halloween and a Christmas party. At the potluck Christmas party, members exchanged gifts and then they had a short program put on by the members of the club.

Spanish Club also participated in the Language Fair in the Spring at Idaho State University. The final activity of the year was golfing and swimming at Heise where they had a picnic, played volleyball and had lawn games.

Yogolo Yummy

French Club sold the delicious yogurt candies to raise money for club activities and to purchase French films like "La Boum," a favorite on the French film circuit. Watching films was one of the club's favorite pastimes.

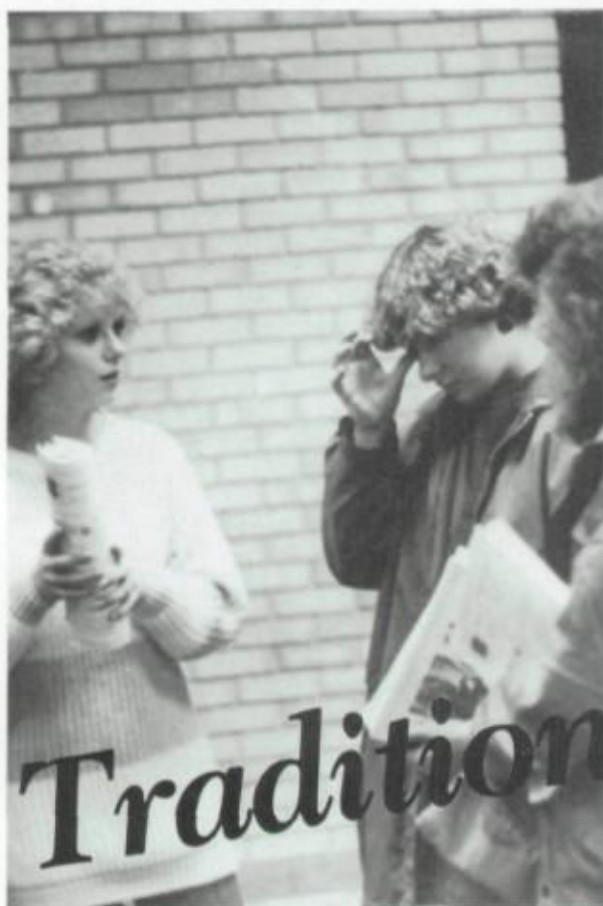

A "pique-nique sur l'herbe" started off the club's activities in the fall. Students enjoyed a typical French picnic, which consisted of a lunch of ham and cheese sandwiches.

Traditional Fun

As several Christmas traditions come from Germany, so did German Club continue its traditional activities.

Members continued to sell sports programs at all home football and basketball games.

They used the money to buy a Christmas tree. They then decorated the tree with home-made decorations and gave it to a needy family. Club members also went caroling, singing songs in German to Germanic people in Idaho Falls.

Building Projects

Industrial Arts members built a 16x6x10 playhouse/swing chair set as their major project this year. It was sold at cost (about $400) to Mr. Bill Savage of the counseling department. Each year, they build a similar project as part of the class instruction. This gives them a hands-on work project, explained Mr. Kent Frederickson, industrial arts instructor.

Several members also participated in the state convention at Minco High School near Rupert. Steve Bailey won a gold medal and Jason Seaman and Lisa Schoenemann won bronze medals in bridge-building competitions.

Painting up a Storm

Building and painting a gigantic three feet high and ten feet long paper mache' tiger that was burned at the spirit bonfire before the Idaho Falls-Skyline football game was just one of the many projects which Art Club was in charge of this year. They were also asked to paint the Skyline endzones for the game.

In appreciation for undertaking these two projects year after year, Booster Club gave Art Club two light tables to use in the art room.

"Art Club this year generally helped out around the school," stated club adviser, Mrs. Alice Trumblee.

Monday Bowling

Featuring two teams and two Pro-Am tournament winners, Skyline Bowling Club met every Monday afternoon from mid-September through late May.

Both Debbie Teraguchi, in Division D and Amy Baxter, in Division A, won a Pro-Am tournament this year. Skyline had two traveling teams which competed against other local teams as well as ones from towns in the intermountain area.

Nine members were on the Skyline I Team, which was made up of Skyline Bowling Team, and eight bowlers made up the Skyline II Team, which consisted of students who bowled at other bowling centers in Idaho Falls.

Despite having a young team, girls' soccer did "really well," according to Coach Nancy Howells.

In the local league, consisting of Idaho Falls, Bonneville, Pocatello and Skyline, the girls' team finished in third place. However, they still made it to the state tournament in Boise.

At state, the girls tied Coeur d'Alene, 2-2, then lost to Boise in a snowstorm, 0-2.

Next year, we will be stronger; we played really well and worked really hard," commented Coach Howells.

Soccer Nets 10-1-0 Season

The soccer team took first in the East Idaho Conference. While in Boise for state competition, in which they took fourth and defeated I.F. for the third time in the season, it snowed.

The team ended up with a 10-1-0 record, with a tie against Bonneville being the only blemish on a near-perfect season record.

So Little Time to do so Much

When 15 students were selected to be on yearbook staff last spring, little did most of them know what they were in for. Only about one-fourth of the staff had any previous experience.

After the staff was organized and instructed in the basics, the first deadline rolled around in December. "Lots of time to get the pages in," everyone thought. But they soon found out that it took a lot of extra time to draw up layouts; write copy, captions and headlines; schedule pictures; and finish up final layouts.

As each deadline - January, March, April, May, June - came around, the staff found it wasn't easy to get pictures scheduled and pages done on time. But they stuck with it and put out a book a whole lot different than any Skyline has seen in quite a while.

Ok, On Three

Photographers worked hard to make sure that the pictures in the annual were up to par. First, they had to make sure they checked all the technical data like ASA, f-stop, shutter speed, depth-of-field or speed blur. Then they had to take the kind of pictures that the layout people wanted.

They had to watch for closed eyes, people looking the wrong way and also make sure that everybody's face could be seen.

Then came the darkroom problems. Was the developer contaminated? Was that eight or 11 minutes? Was the film pushed? Was that six wide and five high, or five wide and six high?

And the end result: If the average photograph in this book were photographed at 1/125th of a second, there's probably about 15 seconds recorded within these pages.

Behind the Lines

Quill and Scroll is an international honor society with the primary purpose of recognizing outstanding achievement by high school journalists.

"It is also used to keep the funds for our conventions, banquets and workshops separated from the newspaper and yearbook subscriptions, so we don't use money from the publications for other types of activities," stated Mr. Don Harris, adviser.

Quill and Scroll sold concessions at ball games, sponsored two dances and sold family portraits to earn money for the state convention held in October and the journalism awards and recognition banquet held in April.

Being awarded his position as Advertising Manager for the newspaper for next year is Ricky Evans.

Members of Quill and Scroll - Vicki Patterson, Janna Howells, Kristin Harris, Jill Beck, and Mary Howell.

Hot Off the Press

"We had our work cut out for us with only two returning staff members, but I think most of the new ones pitched in and learned fast and worked hard," stated Mr. Don Harris, newspaper adviser.

After learning the basics and getting one edition out, nine staff members participated in the state journalism competition in Sun Valley. They took three awards and helped the school place sixth in the sweepstakes competition.

The fourteen staff members put in many long hours after school, at noon and on Saturdays to get the ten editions of the tabloid paper out. Many of the editors had to put in up to 20 hours or more in extra time to get a single edition of "The West Side Story" published.

Finishing up the paste-ups after school, two-to-four staff members would drive (rain, shine, or snow) the six miles to Shelley, get the paper ready for camera work, wait a couple of hours for the camera and press work, then return the paper to Idaho Falls. They usually arrived back in town between 10:30 p.m. and midnight, although one group didn't make it until around 2 a.m.

"Contrary to what many students might believe, there's more to getting a paper out than distributing it every six weeks," commented Mr. Harris.

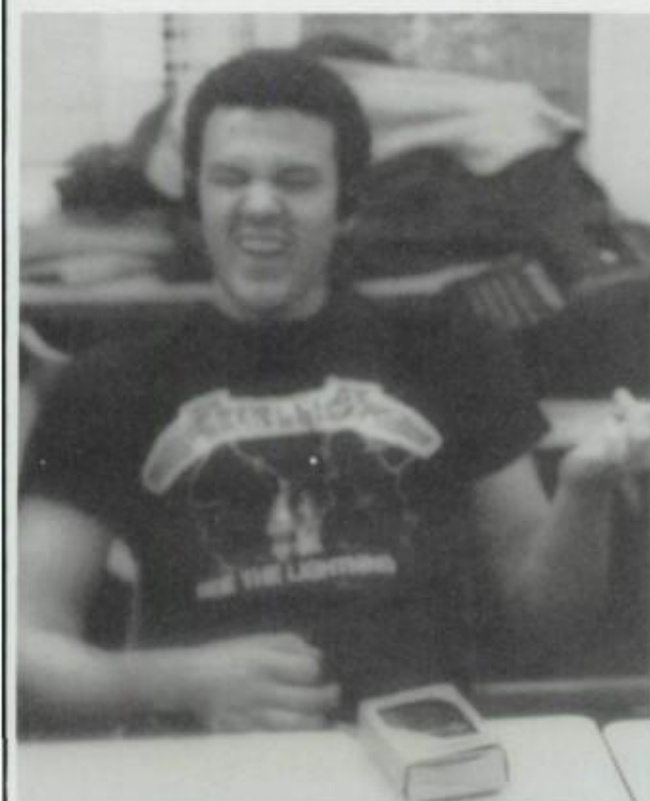

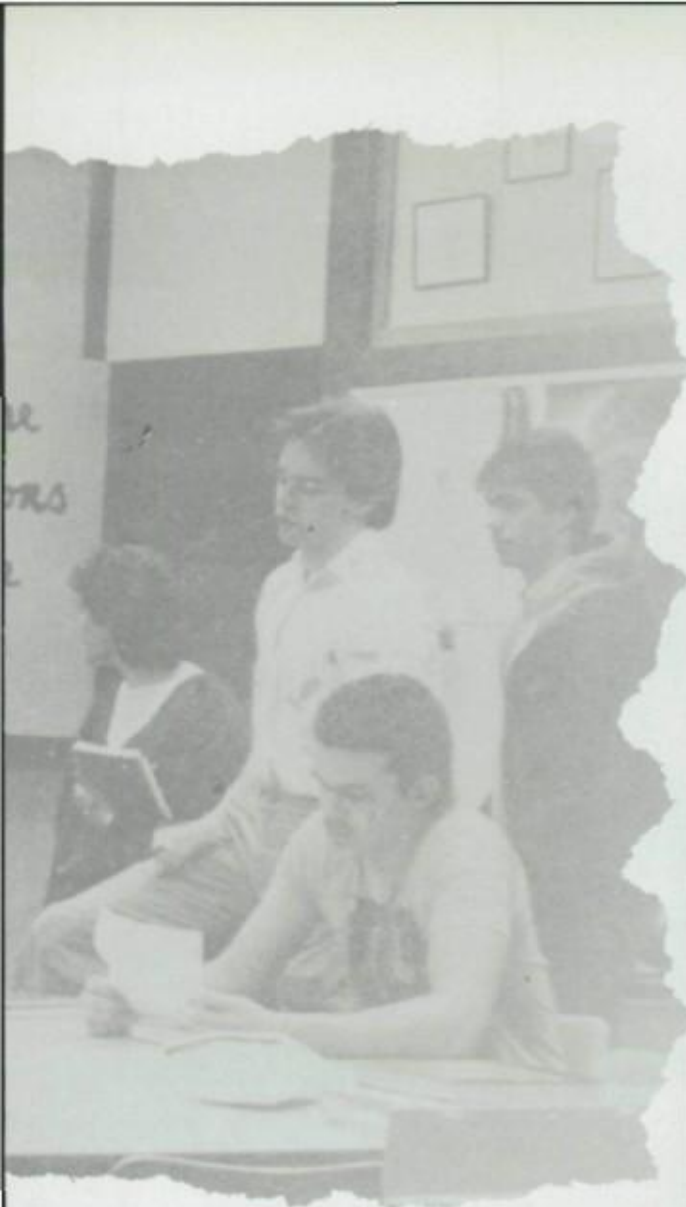

After a newspaper deadline, staff members brainstorm ideas for the next issue.

On Stage

Thespians put on three one-act plays, on March 6 and 7.

"The Sneeze" from The Good Doctor by Neil Simon; "Ladies of the Tower" by Tim Kelly and Ruth Parry; and "It's Cold in Them Thar Hills" by Roma Greth were performed.

Thespian members spent many hours preparing and presenting the plays, with Mrs. Dee Litzenberger as their coach.

"Ladies of the Tower" was performed by back - Michelle Thiel, Clara Miller, Jamie Anderson, Rachael Mecham, Liz Sharp, Lisa Wasley and Sharon Anderson. Front - Brenda Newman and Sarah Freund.

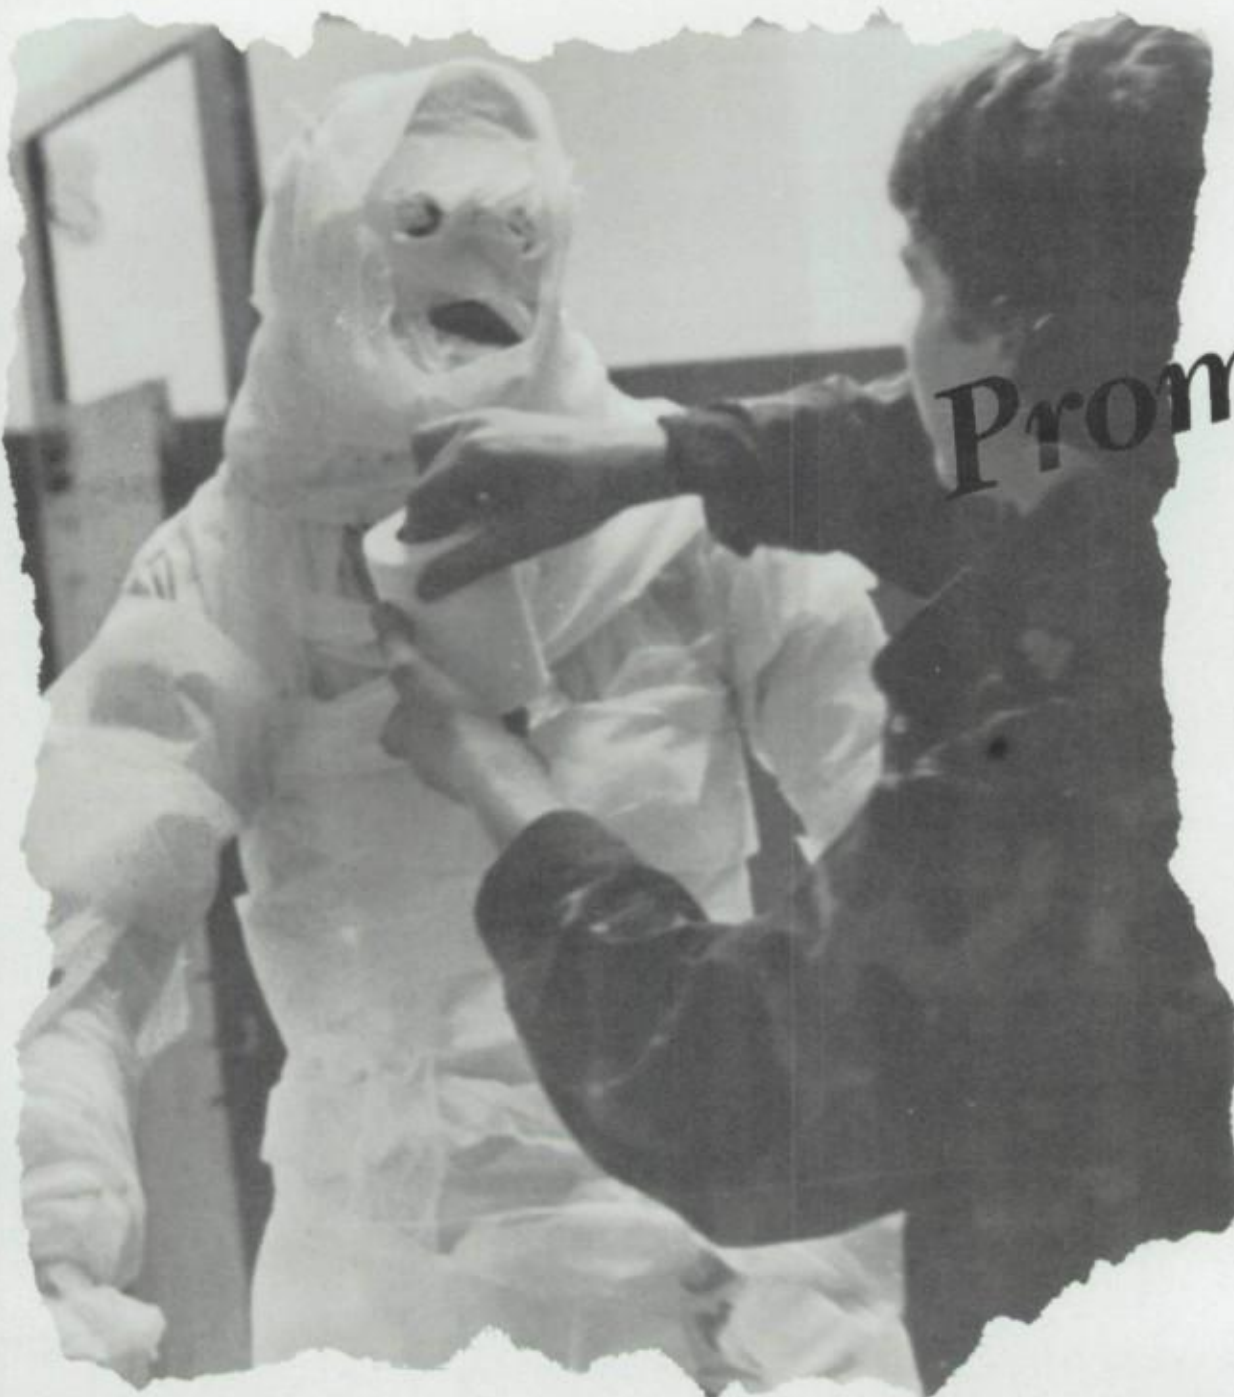

Drama coach Mrs. Dee Litzenberger, who retired at the end of this school year, spent many hours helping students prepare and present plays.

From the Good Doctor by Neil Simon, "The Sneeze" was performed by Daniel Denver, Steve Staggs, Jeff Argast, Lisa Wasley and Michelle Thiel.

Thespian officers - Lisa Wasley, secretary/treasurer; Anna DiFelici, public relations; Clara Miller, president and Jeff Argast, vice-president.

Spooks Promote Safety

DECA was invited back to host a spook-a-rama by the Country Club Mall merchants for the second time. Purpose of the activity was to promote safety and help keep the children off the streets on Halloween night.

DECA's group is the second largest chapter in the state. "It's a lot of work and it's a lot of fun," stated Mr. Jim Wood adviser.

DECA participated in state and national competition. To earn money to go, they put up a Pepsi machine and they operated the school store.

The main goal was to develop future leaders for marketing and distribution. To point this out the DECA creed states, "I believe in the future which I am planning for myself in the field of distribution and in the opportunities which my vocation offers."

Almost Homemakers

FHA (Future Homemakers of America) along with the Industrial Arts Club helped sponsor the Harvest Ball Dance where the girls asked the boys for the date. The theme of this year's dance was "Mountain Music." "The dance went over really well," stated Angie Brower, the vice-president of FHA.

The adviser of FHA was Mrs. Marianne Timmons. When asked how she got involved, she said, "It came with the job." Then she stated, "I like my job, because I come across some very interesting people."

Showing Skills

Showing their office skills in competition is the main goal of O.E.A. members.

In March, O.E.A. went to State Competition for three days in Boise. Those who placed at state went to the National Competition in April. Stayce Petersen was honored first place in Type III.

"The competition between Skyline and other participating schools at State was difficult, so if you placed you did very well. I had a fun time, too," stated Vicki Patterson.

O.E.A.'s service project this year was to provide food for a needy family at Christmas time.

Service Holds the Key

Hosting at the Higher Education Night and cleaning the entrance to the back parking lot at the school were Key Club's service projects.

A couple of hours one night was all that ushering required. One fall Saturday afternoon wasn't enough to clean the entrance, and probably just as well. Just a few weeks after the work project, the entrance sign, bear claws and traffic signs were spray painted with orange and black paint. As a result of this compounded problem, Key Club completed the clean up in the spring.

Dream it... Then do it

To make students aware of the number one killer - driving drunk - was one of the major purposes of SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk). The Skyline chapter was organized this year.

Having a school assembly with national speaker, Bill Meehan, was one project. After the assembly, SADD members gathered together with Mr. Meehan and discussed ideas for chapter activities.

Meehan's visit was part of SADD week, in which members prepared posters and flyers. Mayor Tom Campbell signed a proclamation declaring SADD week.

Students, such as Craig Bennett, painted posters for SADD Week.

Hot! That's what Skyline sports were.

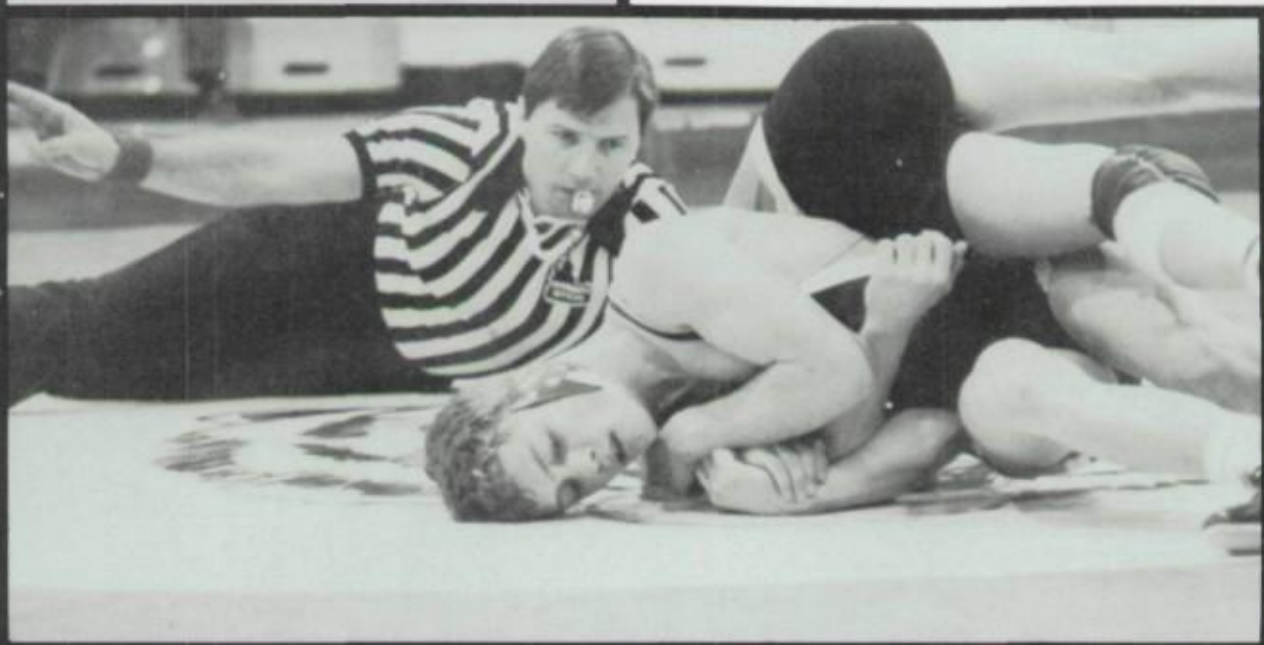

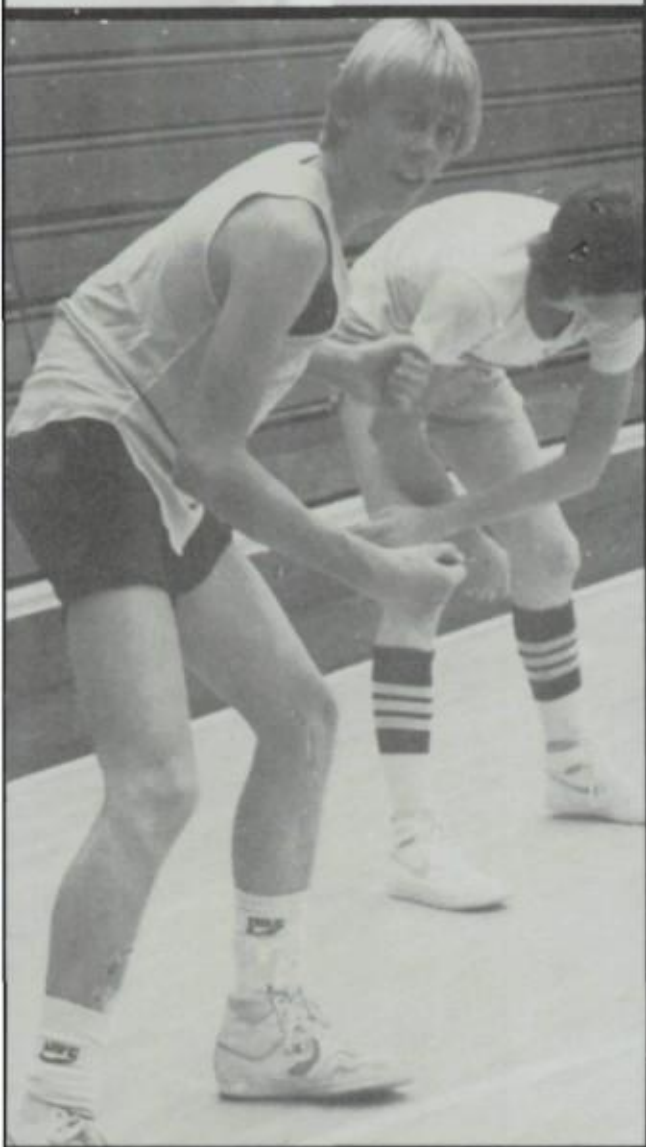

The varsity football team took the State A-1 Division II Championship and finished the season with a 11-3 record. The sophomores had a season record of 4-3.

Girls' Varsity Volleyball had a successful season of 13-7 and the JV's also came out on top with a season record of 13-11.

In boys' basketball, the varsity team had a 19-8 record, took first in the Sixth District Tournament and placed fifth at State. The sophomores had an awesome 16-7 season and were district champions. The varsity girls did great, too. They had a 13-9 season, but the JV team finished with a 6-15 record. Our famous wrestlers had to settle for a 10-1-1 dual meet record and a third at the state tournament. They suffered their first dual loss in 16 years.

In the spring, baseball hit off their season with a double-header in Twin Falls, where they split and then carried out an above average season. Tennis and track rounded out the spring sports where Skyline shone as a school and individual athletes also stood out.

Griz share Title in GSC

Banners flew, fans cheered and the scenes were blue and white. The season opened with a defeat against Capital by a 32-14 score. Next came a knockout win over Madison, 14-0. With blue in their eyes, the varsity team then conquered Minico by a 49-26 score.

Coming into the fourth game of the season, the Grizzlies had taken another victory over Twin Falls, 28-26. Following was another outstanding win over Pocatello by a 40-0 score. The Grizzlies continued their winning ways against Blackfoot, pulling in the fifth winning game of the year by a 21-13 score. Next, the Grizzlies were defeated by Nampa, 20-6.

The "emotion bowl" was next for the varsity team. They were defeated by cross-town rivals, the Idaho Falls Tigers, by a 35-19 score. Skyline still had pride and confidence, as they scooped up two more wins over Bonneville 34-22 and Rigby, 27-8.

The regular season ended with a 7-2 record overall and 7-1 in conference games. The Grizzlies were co-champions in the Gem State Conference.

Waiting for a handoff, Vince Bateman watches in anticipation as quarterback Kurt Machen handles the play.

Griz win State title for Coach Ras

Finishing off the season with 7 wins and two losses, the varsity team went into the play-offs against Madison and Idaho Falls. During the Mini Bowl, the Grizzlies came out on top of both teams with big wins. After defeating Madison 7-3, the team was ready to prove to the Skyline fans and to Coach Mahlon Rasmuson that they were ready to see blue. The team proved that in the next game against Idaho Falls, winning 16-0.

While chanting, "We'll roam in the dome, while I.F. stays home," Skyline varsity players went to the minidome and proved their abilities once again with a 14-3 win over Blackfoot.

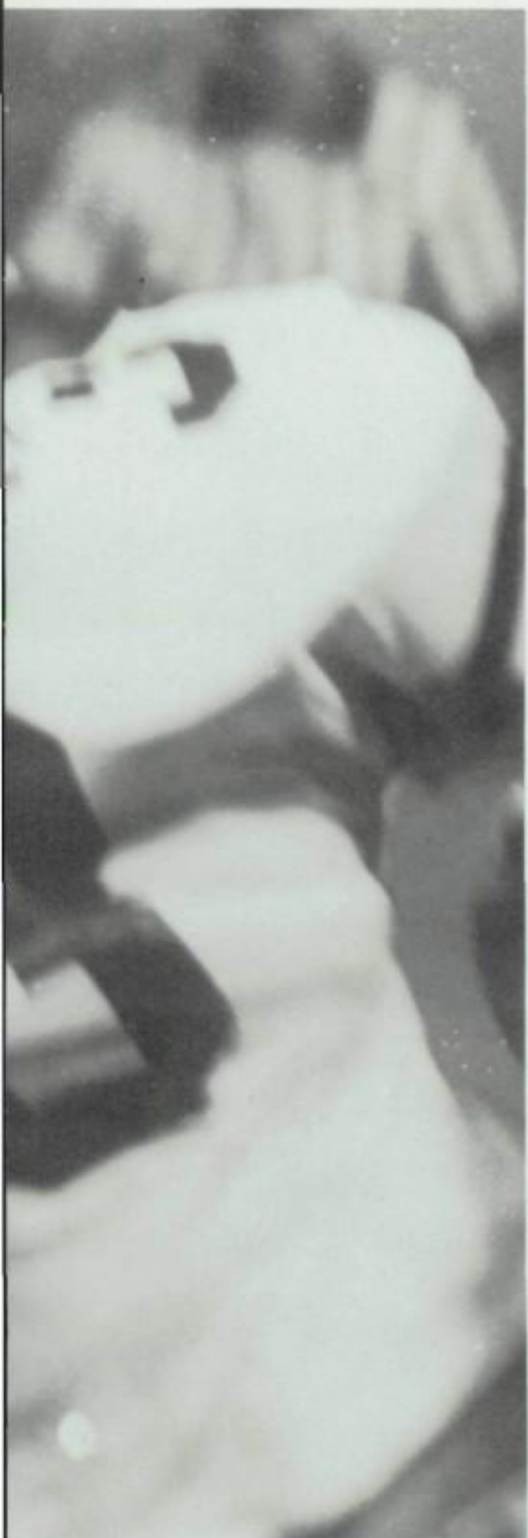

For the first time ever in the school's history, the team went for the state title and won the championship against Post Falls, 34-0.

"I think it was close to one of our best games. We wanted to win this bad. Most of all it was for Ras, this was his game," said senior wide receiver and punter Ty Morgan.

"I've played for him (Rasmuson) for three years and he's like a father to me. I'm going to miss him," added senior quarterback, Kurt Machen.

"Over the years there have been good times as well as bad times. Thank God the kids over the past 18 years have made my coaching worthwhile. The great assistant coaches have added to all my fond memories of coaching. I'll miss coaching, but I'll always have my memories," said Coach Rasmuson concerning his retirement.

Sophs. Do Battle for 4-3 record

Coming into the 1985 season, the sophomores hoped for a great season. In the first game, they suffered a defeat from Madison by a 6-16 score. But with high hopes and lots of confidence, the sophomores came back to defeat Minico by a whopping score of 46-14. After this exciting comeback, they knew that they were going to have some tough competition.

Highland's JV team dealt the sophomores a tough blow by winning 6-13. But the sophomores still held on to fight the I.F. Tigers; however, the Tigers came out on top with a 18-32 win. With one game left, the sophomores still had what it took to pull out a victory in the final game. They triumphantly squashed the Bonneville Bees by a final score of 46-0.

Team Sets Up for State

Members of varsity volleyball were ready to start their new year. They were filled with hard work, dedication and the will to win. With their new coach, Ardena "Ardie" McInelly, and their hard work, they were ready to go all the way, and they did just that.

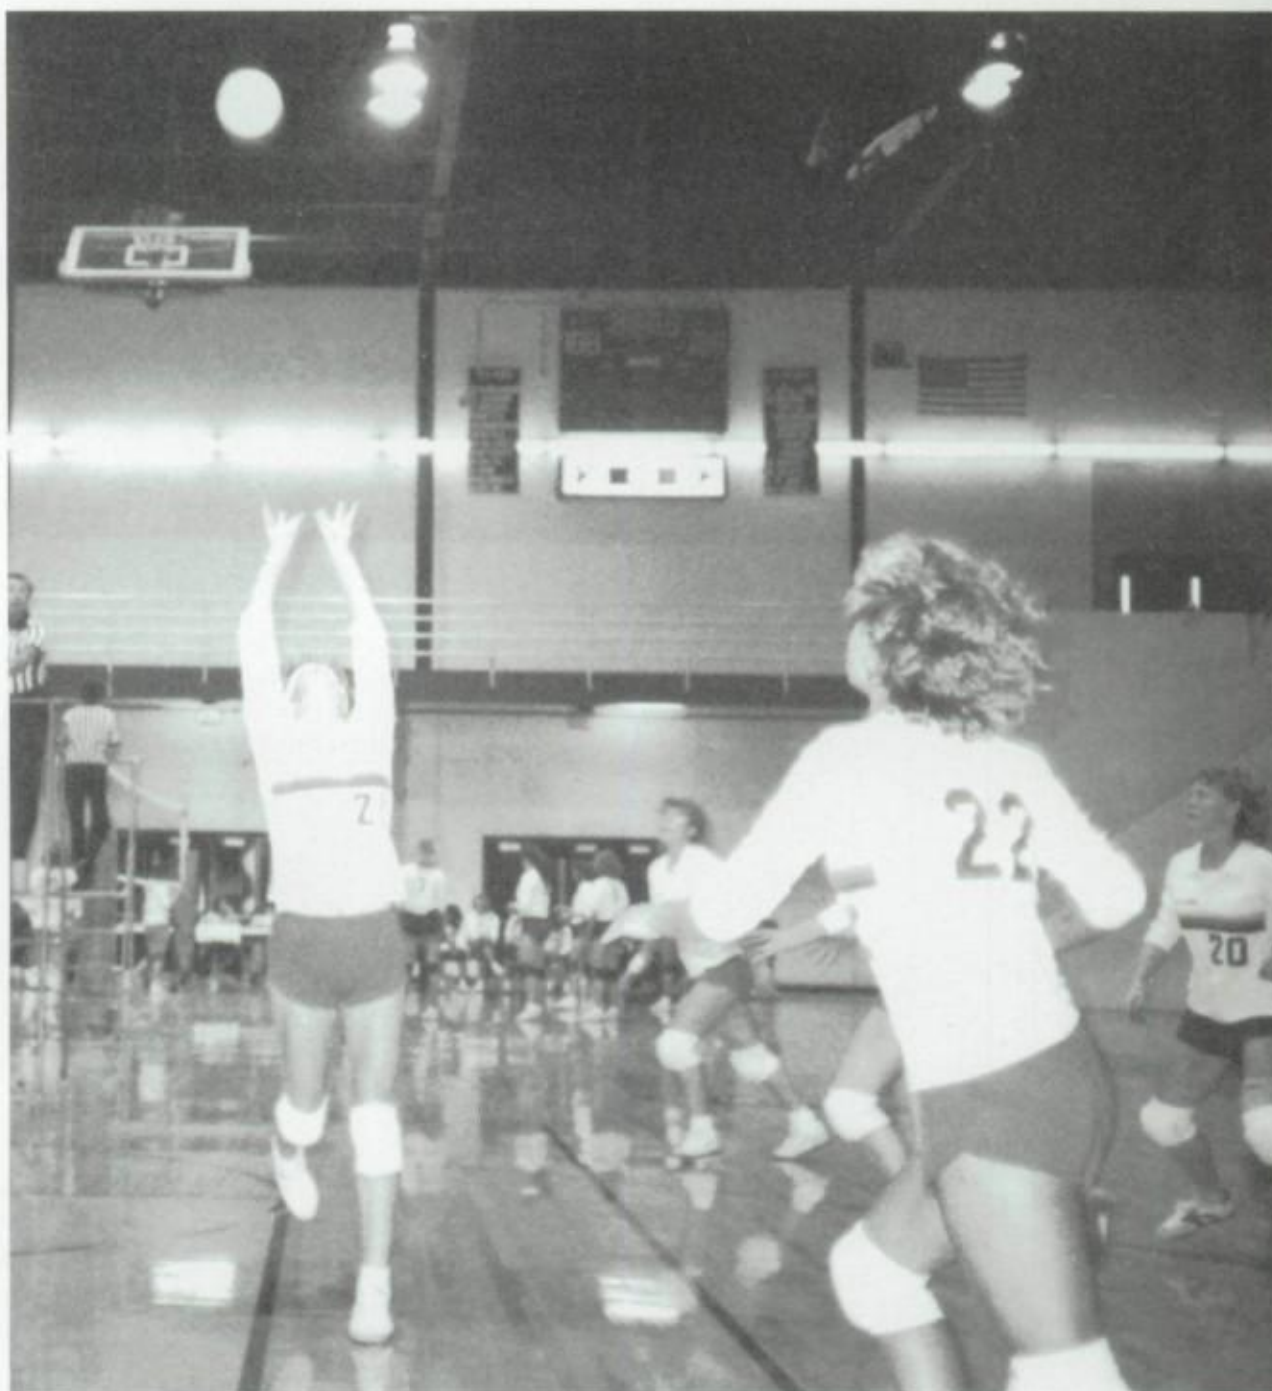

The season started off with Skyline walking all over Bonneville, Twin Falls and Poky. Things at this point were looking great. But spirit was slightly down after they lost five out of the next seven games. But all of this didn't make the Grizzlies lose their will to win; it just made them want it all the more. So they worked hard and went on in the next 10 games to record eight additional victories.

District tournament was next on the calendar and the first game looked tough. But when the day came, Skyline found themselves bringing Madison down. Only losing to I.F., Skyline took second in district and was on its way to state.

At state, the Grizzlies were defeated by Nampa and Lewiston and came out with an overall record of 15-11.

Returning Spikers Form Nucleus

Coming into the '85 season, the volleyball team had "something new and something old." With six returning varsity players as a nucleus for the team, prospects looked bright. When four JV players, who saw considerable action last year, were added, things looked even better. Then, a new coach, with collegiate playing and high school coaching experience entered the scene. Chances of a state berth looked good.

It might have been tough to make the changes and adjustments at first, but both players and coach found out what the other wanted. Coach Aride McInelly required lots of hard work to get the team in shape. The girls knew it wouldn't be easy. Early practice sessions brought pain, but as the season rolled along, the pain soon subsided and the team skills began to jell. By tournament time, the squad was ready for nearly anyone as they made it to the State A-1 play offs.

JV Spikers Slam into Action

Ready to start high school volleyball, the new sophomores, with a few juniors to show them the ropes, were ready to show everyone their stuff.

To start the year, the J.V.'s took two losses in a row, but were still ready and determined to take on anyone. Their season had its ups and downs, but they won important games against Minico, Bonneville, Poky, and Twin Falls.

Next stop for the J.V.'s was the Snake River Tournament. They took each of the other three teams and taught them all a lesson and walked away with the first place trophy.

District was taken very seriously, also. Only having problems with Madison, Skyline took second overall and ended up with an overall record of 13 wins and 11 losses.

Cross Country in midst of rebuilding

With a large group of boys out, Cross Country was in the midst of a building year. "They did the best they possibly could, and that's all I could ask," stated Coach Deloy Roberts.

In most of their meets, both the boys' and girls' varsity teams usually finished in the middle of the pack. For the JV boys, however, it was a different story, as they finished no lower than third in any of their meets. And for Coach Roberts, it was pleasing to see the overall performance of the teams. He said "there's a lot of competition for the positions, particularly on the boys' varsity team."

Top runners from the boys' varsity were Eric Roberts, David Richert, Clint Field, Robbie Garr and Todd Williams. Jenny Patterson, Arra Elli Carranza, Cathy Rhoades and Becky Bridges paced the girl varsity runners.

The JV boys' team saw junior David Ohman out front. Ohman said he preferred to run JV so he could place higher. "Others usually finishing in the top 20 (out of 50-100) runners which were Mark Thompson, Jason Roberts, Eric Odell, Ken Roberts, Eric Odell, Ken Granger, James Cole, Brad Hindman and Brandy Corgatelli.

Blistering, cold wind hampered the thinclads at both the Tiger-Grizzly Invitational and the regional runs, both held at Freeman Park in Idaho Falls. This was quite a contrast to the warm sunny weather at the Twin Falls Classic a couple of weeks earlier.

Girl Cagers Work for 13-9 Record

Quite excited about the upcoming basketball season, Skyline's girls worked hard with their new coach, Ardie McInelly, in order to come up with a winning season.

The games started quickly and the Griz found themselves winning their first two. Soon, midseason came along and the Griz found their season not quite satisfactory and decided to do something about it. They took their last six games and only lost one, easily taking Poky, Minico, and Bonneville.

District soon showed up and the Griz went easily by Blackfoot and Bonneville, but they lost to Madison and I.F.

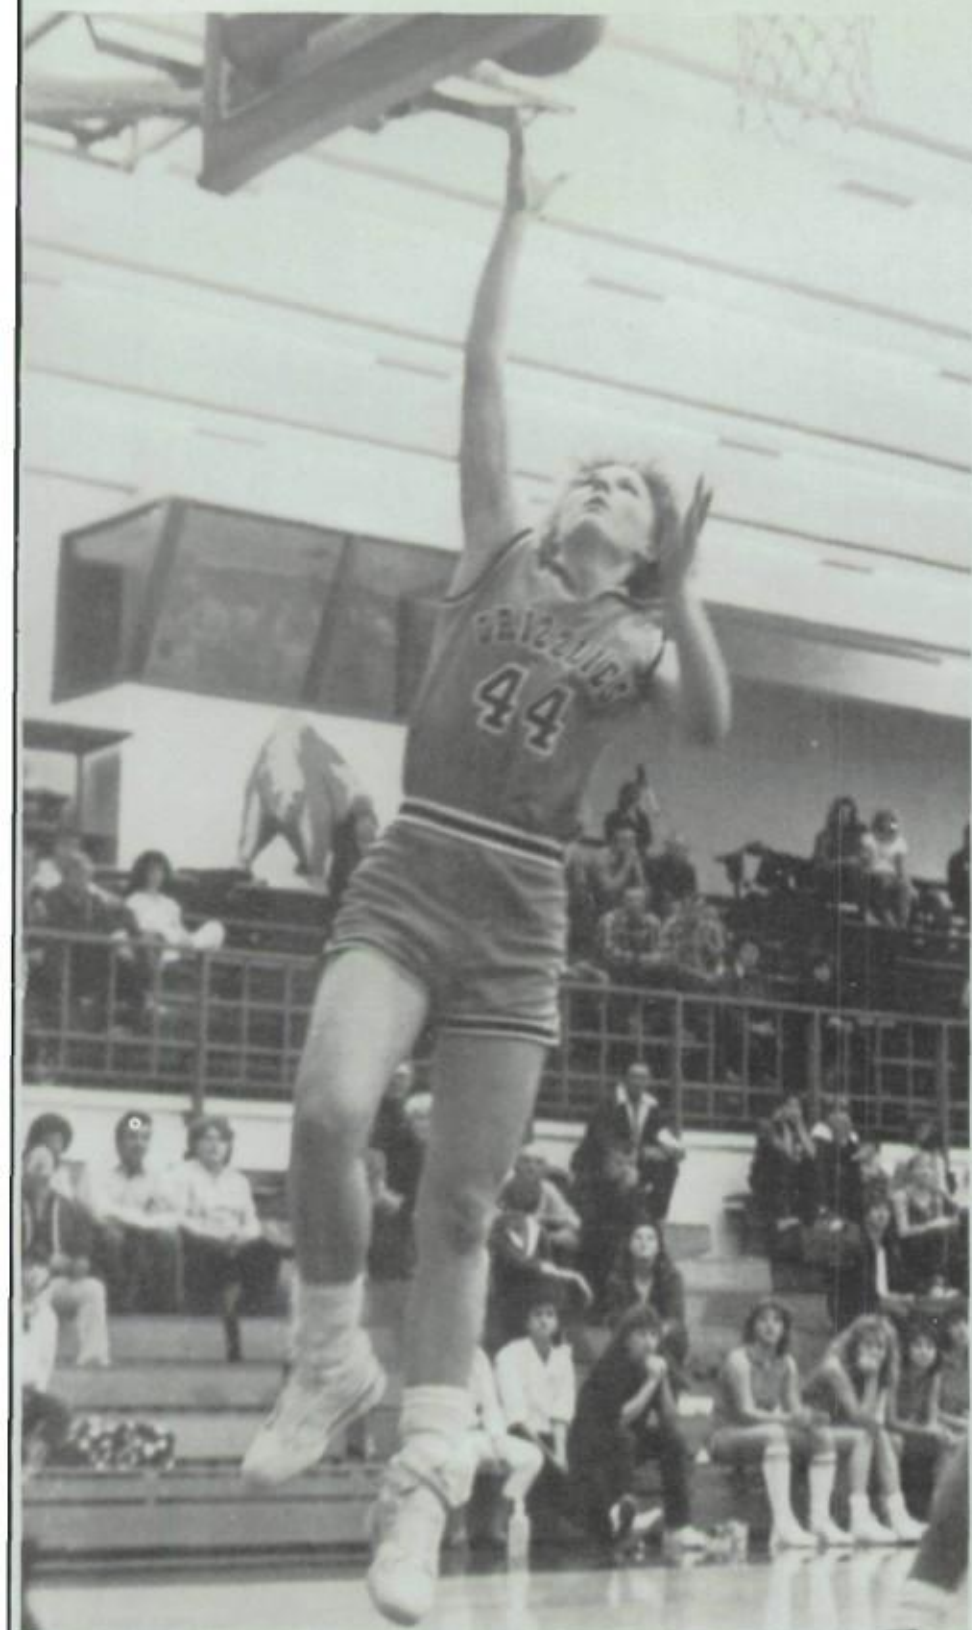

The Griz finished the season with an overall record of 13-9.

Bench Gives Balance To Team

Although Lyn Stone, Kristy Jensen, Amy Frandsen, Debbie Gertsch and Lisa White led the girls in scoring, rebounding and assists, each of the other girls had their best nights, too.

First-year coach Ardie McInelly stressed that the team, although young, maintained defense as its strength throughout the year. She also credited the reserves with coming off the bench and doing a super job. A few of the reserves who had outstanding games were Dee Cramer and Margaret Holmer (against Bonneville), Niki Morgan (against Blackfoot) and Suzanne Pancheri (against Minico).

Some of the losses in the early going were attributed to injuries and sickness. Chief of the injuries occurred during the Highland game. With Skyline ahead, 48-31, Debbie Gertsch was jolted as she attempted to set for a charging foul against Highland's offense. She fell unconscious to the floor. Gertsch was rushed to the hospital and was out of action for several weeks. Highland went on to win that contest 50-68 after scoring 12 unanswered points.

Relying on balanced scoring and aggressive offensive and defensive play, the girls wound up with an 11-7 regular season and 13-9 overall record. They placed third in the four-team Sixth District A-1 Tournament.

JV Team Struggles Through Season

The JV girls started the year with a new look. With all of the newly arrived sophomores and a new coach, they had to learn from each other.

They started the year with a big win over Rigby, but took two losses before defeating Minico and Blackfoot. In the next couple of weeks, the Griz picked up a losing streak in their next five games. They then found themselves facing Minico again, but this time, the girls cruised right past the Spartans. They grabbed another win before district and another new task.

District started with a big win over Bonneville, but the team then lost to Madison and Bonneville to put them out of the double elimination tournament.

The JV girls came out with a record of 6 wins and 15 losses.

Junior Varsity Girls' Basketball - April Young, Niki Morgan, Cassie Olsen, Chris Carroll, Suzanne Pancheri, Lisa Adams, Diane Stewart, Janice Morehead, Monica Hamberlin and Ginger Crystal.

The Gun Club Explodes

After an exploding season, the Grizzly pride was high as the team went into the District Tournament. Attacking Madison, The Griz came out on top with a 71-66 score. Following this game, the Grizzlies were headed towards the Idaho Falls Tigers once again, only to be defeated 48-67. With hope and faith combined, the varsity "Gun Club" came back and won against Bonneville by a 53-51 score. Once again, the mighty Grizzlies were to face the Idaho Falls Tigers, only to show them that when the going got tough, the Grizzlies got tougher. And they did by defeating the Tigers, 79-64. With that win, the Grizzlies won a trip to state and the right to fight Idaho Falls for the District Championship. They then came out and defeated the Tigers for the Sixth District A-1 Championship, 50-47.

Going into the State Tournament, the Grizzlies won their first game with an impressive win in overtime over Nampa, 82-76. In the next game, Skyline played the Pocatello Indians and was ahead until the last few minutes, only to be defeated by four points, 60-64. In the third game of the State Tournament, the Griz were fired up and ready to give it their all. Playing nip-and-tuck with the taller Meridian Warriors, the Grizzlies again were ahead going into the final few minutes. They lost by six, 64-70.

The Grizzlies finished their regular season with a 51-5 record and were 19-8 overall.

Aggressive team Rebuilds Basketball Power

With a team filled with aggressiveness and a lot of hustle, the Grizzlies opened up their season of basketball by defeating the '85 A-1 champs, Borah, by a score of 89-79. The next night, they defeated another Boise valley team, the Capitol Eagles, 70-56. The next two games were home-and-home encounters with the Rigby Trojans, who faced defeat at the hands of the Grizzlies - 77-52 and 68-56.

Suffering their first loss of the season, the Grizzlies were defeated by number-one ranked Pocatello, 53-55, then rebounded to defeat Bonneville, 74-63. Next, facing the Idaho Falls Tigers, the Griz were defeated by three, 65-68, only to come back and clobber Blackfoot, 74-40. After losing to Highland by one at 58-59, the Griz clawed their next three foes - Minico, 85-67, Madison 71-55 and Bonneville, 77-64.

In a close rematch with Idaho Falls, Skyline narrowed the margin, but were once again defeated, 55-56. Following that hard-to-take upset on their home court, the Griz were humiliated by Pocky in a 48-62 contest. In their final four regular season games, they defeated Blackfoot, 57-50, lost to Twin Falls, 59-60, downed Highland, 68-65 and then clobbered Minico, 71-48.

Sophs. Growl for 16-7 record

Going into the 1985-'86 season, the sophs. were defeated 60-80, but came back to capture their first win against Capital, 59-55. against Borah, Skyline was defeated 60-80, but came back against Capital to capture their first win of the season, 59-55. They were then faced with two more defeats, both by Rigby, 47-54 and 65-67.

The Grizzlies then knew they had to fight back hard and they did, with five straight wins: Madison 68-60, Pocatello, 63-58. Bonneville, 73-55, Idaho Falls, 63-48 and Blackfoot, 55-43. But the string was broken when they went up against Highland, only to be defeated, 40-56.

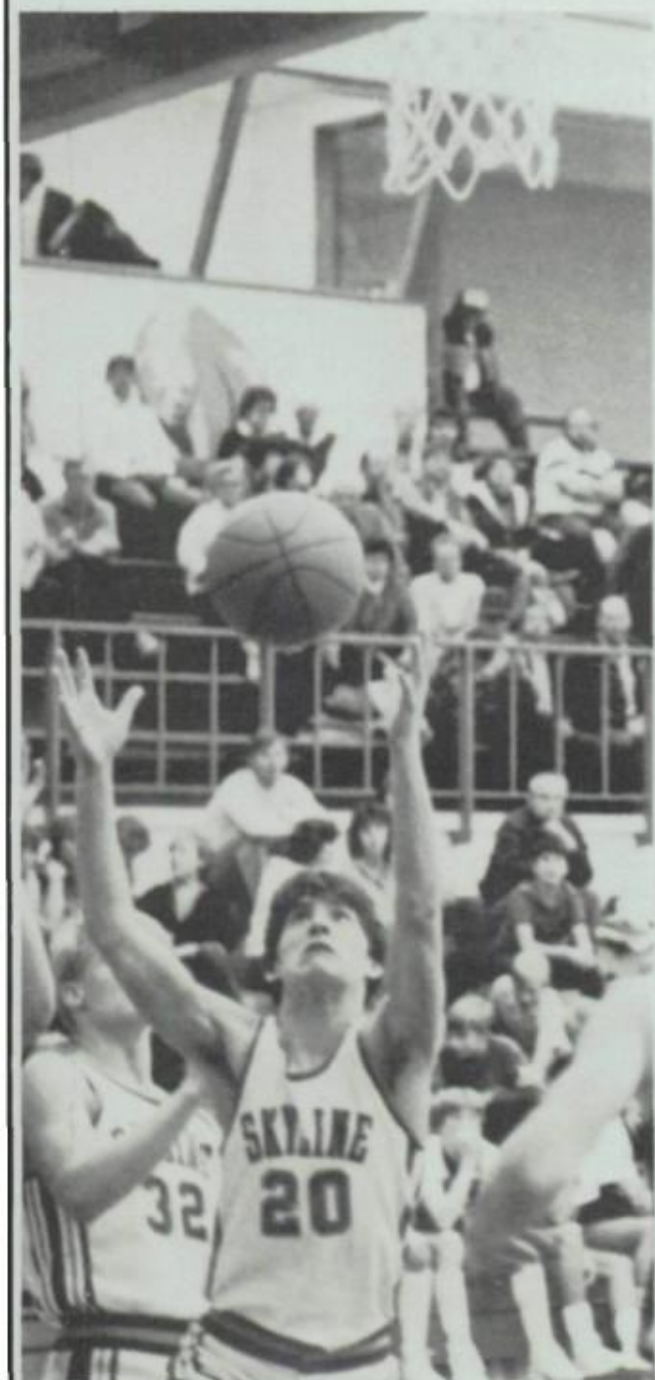

Playing Twin Falls, the sophs. made a giant comeback and won 71-29. They went on to win four more: Minico, 77-52, Madison, 66-52, Bonneville, 65-48 and Idaho Falls once again, 41-29.

In the next two games, the sophomores were defeated by Pocatello, 42-50 and Blackfoot, 57-59. After their last two defeats, the Grizzlies got it back together and defeated Twin Falls 65-52 and Highland 55-56.

Going into District Tournament, the sophomores were pumped up to take it all the way. Showing that they could, they won all three games. Idaho Falls fell 64-56, Madison, 65-59 and Madison once again, 66-54. The sophomores finished with the best record in the southeastern Idaho area. They finished with a 13-7 regular season record and a 16-7 overall mark.

There were two wrestlers who took fourth in the State A-1 championships. They were Bryan Stosich and Rob Hall.

The Skyline grapplers had a good year as they took first in the Sixth District and third in the State A-1 Tournament.

Coach Brian Ricks summed up the season by saying, "The varsity team did really good." But he did add that "losing Kurt Machen really hurt the team's morality, but the senior grapplers picked the team back up." Machen threw out his knee and missed both the district and state tournaments.

Putting out a lot of sweat and hard work is Lance Charles.

Haven't Lost the Touch

Showing that the Grizzly wrestlers hadn't lost their touch, the varsity opened the '85-'86 season with a convincing 63-3 victory over Madison. In their next outing, however, they had to settle for a 36-36 tie with the Highland Rams. After that, they came back with several more outstanding victories.

Fighting hard, they pulled another win out, defeating Blackfoot 37-18. The next foe to fall was Minico, by a 59-6 lopsided decision.

The Grizzlies next had to face the Idaho Falls Tigers, traditionally Skyline's biggest rival. This time, Skyline came through to defeat the Tigers with a score of 42-23. Staying in the rhythm, the Griz went on to stomp Twin Falls by a 63-6 score and the Pocatello Indians, 48-20.

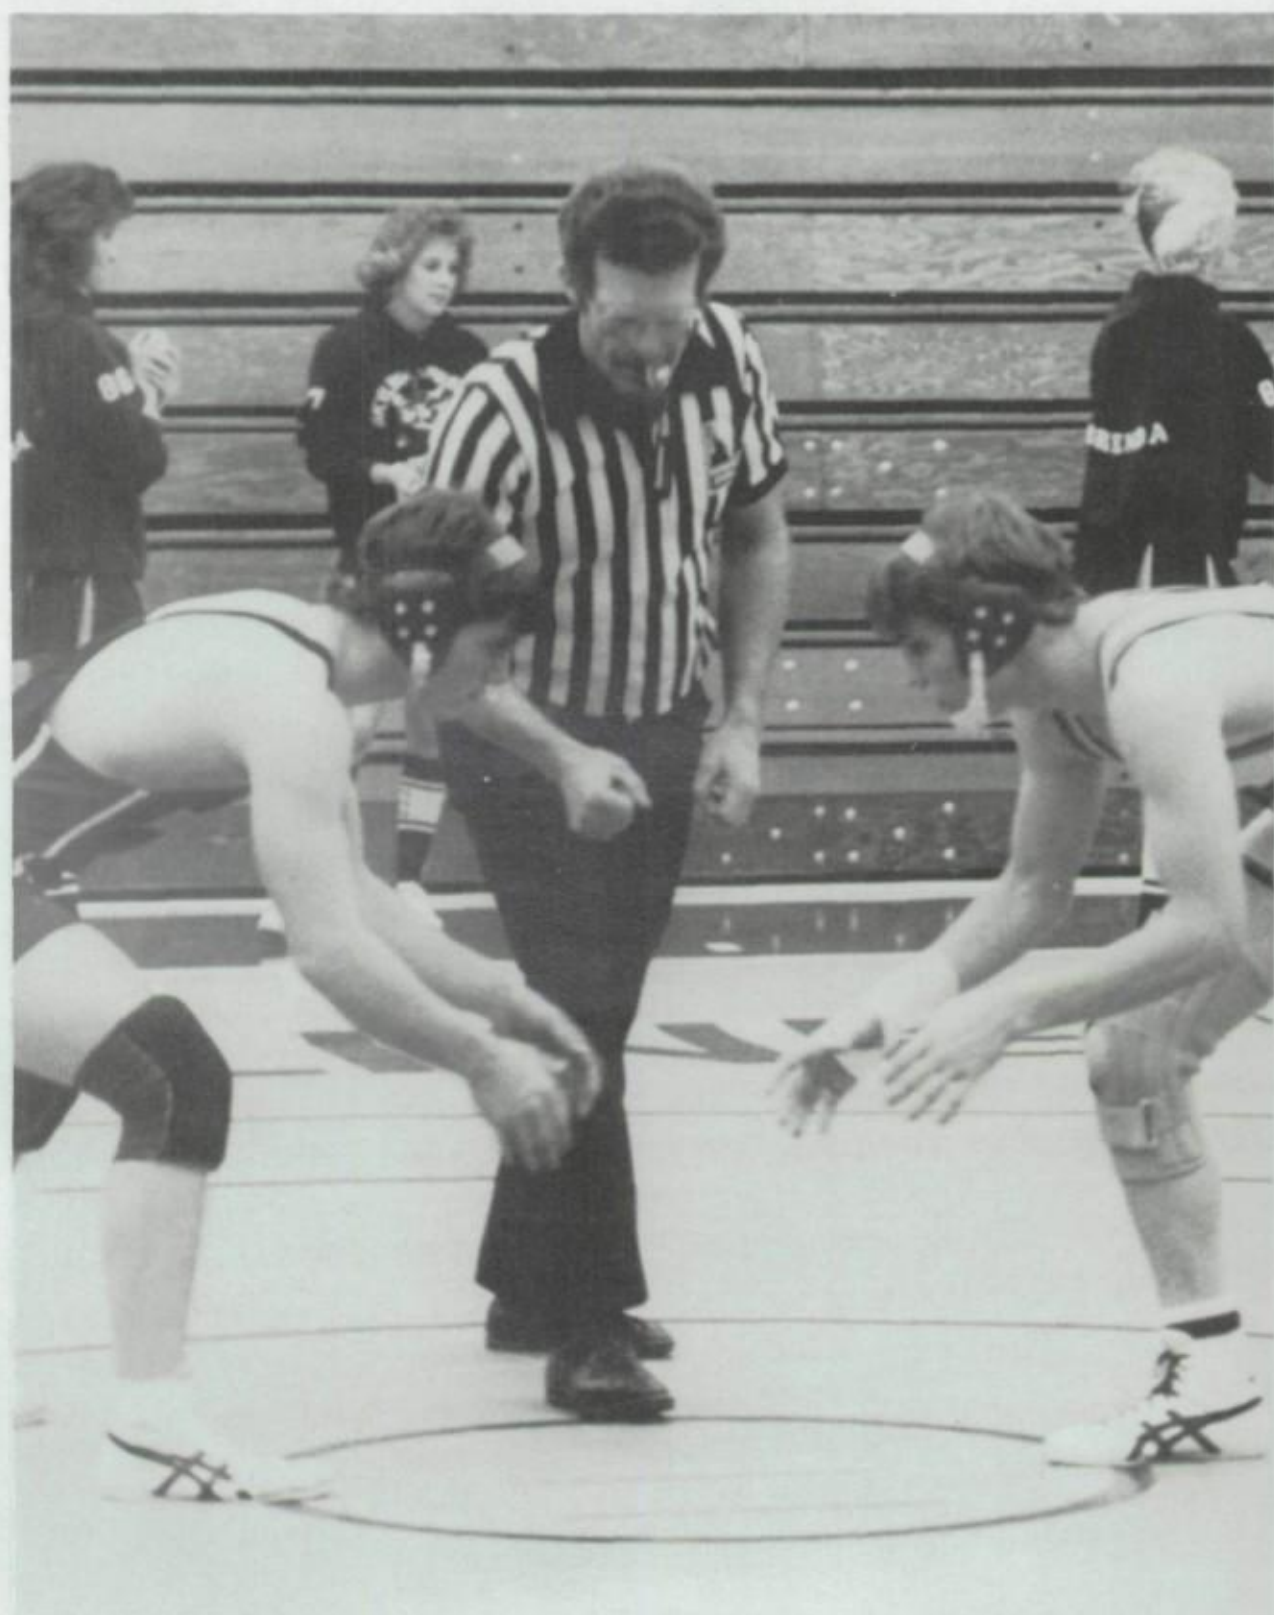

Bonneville put a new record in the history books by defeating the Skyline grapplers by a 32-26 count. This was the first time in 16 years that Skyline wrestlers had lost a duel match. This was the final duel of the regular season and several wrestlers were injured or ill. This left the season record at 6-1-1.

The varsity also did well in their tournament action. They placed second at the Minico Invitational, Madison Tournament, and the Tiger/Grizzly Invitational. They placed third at the Green River, Wyoming Invitational.

All But One Foe

When all the work was over and it was time to show some action, Skyline's wrestlers were ready to do just that.

They started their year with an easy win against the Madison Bobcats and looked forward to showing Highland a thing or two. After Highland received a good lesson, the Griz took a tough loss against Blackfoot. They then put themselves together and took that experience to win their next three matches against Minico, I.F., and Poky. The JV's ended up with a record of five wins and only one loss.

Early melt Allows Head Start

A new spring came into bloom and it was time for the Skyline track team to start training. With the early February snow melt, one could see Skyline's tracksters running through the streets of Idaho Falls.

Happy with the large turn out, Coach Dennis Ballock was anxious to get the season started. With many returning seniors and a resurfaced track, the team was determined to make it a winning year.

Through all the practices and meets, each member looked forward to the Tiger/Grizzly Invitational, a chance to show all the other schools what they had. This large track meet took most of the day, but Skyline's winning positions made it well worth it.

For the girls, Lisa White placed first in discus and shotput, Sandy Schley placed first in the 100 hurdles and Bobbie Knight placed third in shotput.

For the boys, Mike Bills placed first in shotput; Vince Bateman placed fourth in the 100; Todd Williams placed fifth in the 800; Gary Baxter placed sixth in 200; Eric Roberts, sixth in the 1600; and the 400 relay of Doug Taylor, Scott Clark, Breck Crystal, and Vince Bateman placed second.

Leaping through the air on a good jump is triple jumper Paul Anderson.

Following through after a nice heave is shot-putter Rick Hindman.

Grasping the sweet taste of victory is intermediate specialist Gary Baxter.

Taking first place in the discus at Gem State Invitational is sophomore Lisa White.

Thirteen Qualify for State

Much time and energy was spent before a Skyline track meet. Lifting weights and running laps were just a few routines track members went through to get in shape for their upcoming track meets.

The coaches of track were Dennis Ballock (Head Coach), Larry Johnson, Deloy Roberts and Vince Howard.

Track members who qualified for state and their divisions were: Paul Anderson, triple jump; Bill Stirn and Brent Chapman, high jump; Mike Sayer, discus; Vince Bateman, 100 meter dash; Doug Taylor, 200 meter dash; Eric Roberts, 1600 meters; Jenny Patterson, 3200 meters; Sandy Schley, 100 meter hurdles; and Bobbie Knight, discus.

In addition, three track members made state in two events. They were: Jade Siddoway, 100 and 300 meter hurdles; Mike Bills, shotput and discus; and Lisa White, shotput and discus.

Lisa White erased a record held by a former Griz, Mickey Hill (1983). White heaved the discus a season area best of 129-7 at the district track meet.

The state championship track meet was held in boise at Boise State University. Two Griz tracksters placed at state. Lisa White took first place in the shotput with a throw of 38-4 and Sandy Schley placed 7th in the 100 meter hurdles with a time of 16:34. Overall, the boys placed 11th and the girls finished in 12th place.

Heaving the discus during the Tiger/Grizzly Invitational is Mike Sayer.

Setting their pace for the 1600 meters are Skyline track members: Clint Field, Eric Odell, George Wood and Eric Roberts.

Way to State

With a season record of 11 wins, 15 losses, and 1 tie, the boys' varsity baseball team wrapped up their action.

In the double header against Minico, the Spartans took a loss in the first game, 11-8; but in the second game Skyline was defeated, 9-15.

The Grizzlies' first game of the double-header against Highland was won, 11-4, but things turned around for the Rams in the second game with the Griz defeated 2-6.

Playing on a wet and muddy field, the Griz suffered a loss against Blackfoot 3-5. Because of rain, the second game was called off.

In the game against Minico in the Gem State Conference play-offs, Brad Fostter threw a great game and the defense was tough for the Grizzlies. Skyline defeated the Spartans 14-6.

During the second game of the play-offs, the Blackfoot Broncos managed to defeat the Griz 5-6. This put the Griz against the loser of the Pocatello-Idaho Falls game.

Senior Brad Foster managed to limit the Tigers to just two hits as he had a record of eight strikeouts. The Griz managed to shut-out the Tiger, 9-0, to take third place and qualify for the State tournament.

At State, Skyline first took on the Borah Lions who managed to hold the Griz down as the Griz lost 5-6.

The Grizzlies tried again, but their luck didn't hold out when they came in contact with the Blackfoot Broncos. The final score was 7-11.

Baseball Starts Drills in December

Coming into the 1986 baseball season, the varsity team started training and practice early in December. The Grizzlies put in lots of time and sweat as they conditioned through aerobics to prepare for a good season.

Opening up with two double-header games against Twin Falls, they won one at 8-0 and lost one, 1-14. They also split a second doubleheader against Pocatello - winning 1-4, but losing 1-4 - to put us at 2-2.

Bonneville and Rigby were the Griz' next two single games, and Skyline came out strong against both opponents to defeat them - Bonneville 12-2 and Rigby 9-5. They then had another double-header against the Madison Bobcats. Skyline again split, winning 13-1 and losing 5-16. This kept their league record even at four wins and four losses.

The hard training early in the year proved to help as the Grizzlies showed their stuff early in the season. With high hopes of swinging into some more fun action in upcoming games.

JV Games Grab Experience

"It was a pretty good season," commented Steve Killian about the JV baseball team season.

During the season, games were either "rained out or were lost because of errors," according to several players.

Lane Erickson remarked, "It was a good experience. There were a lot of sophomores and freshman. This experience should really strengthen both the varsity and JV teams next year. All in all - it was a really good season."

The lowest point of the season, team members felt, was when they lost to Idaho Falls, 2-12.

Top pitching records were Jeff Baird, 3-1; David Hadley, 2-4; and Danny Terraguchi, 2-1. Top hitter was Matt Motes.

Coach Curtis Rudd, man of few words, had no comment on this year's season.

Trying to take a steal off second base during a game with the Bonneville Bees, Jeff Baird dances around the bag.

Anxious to get into the batter's box, Shane Layland and Kevin Whitacre pick out their bats and take a few warm-up swings.

5-5-2 Record

Despite recording their best season in the past seven years, Skyline's tennis squad opened with a loss before grabbing three straight wins.

The Griz had a regular season record of five wins, five losses and two ties. One of the highlights was Gretchen Meikle, the girls' singles ace, who won all of her matches except one before going into the state finals.

On a cold, rainy, windy weekend in May, the tennis squad entered district tournament action. They came up in third place, with four players qualifying for state. Gretchen took first in girls' singles, Per Lundvick was second in boys' singles, and the girls' doubles team of Lyn Stone and Melissa Warren finished up in second.

Competition was a little tougher at state. Gretchen ended up in fourth place, Per was fifth and the girls' doubles team failed to place.

Golf Team Below Par

One change, which many fans have either forgotten about or never knew about in the first place, was having golf in the fall. The decision was made to have golf a fall sport in the Gem State Conference. The reason was because of the late start in the spring. So, last fall, the GSC schools held their conference meets and named a conference champion. But, as the other schools in the state had spring golf, the GSC had to have two golf seasons - the one in the fall, and the spring state tournament. As it turned out, Skyline didn't have to worry, as they didn't qualify for state, anyway.

Skyline had only one varsity golfer, senior David Gronbeck, returning to the team. He was also selected as the outstanding golfer of the season.

In commenting on the season, Coach Mike Rose and the players agreed on one thing: they had a fair season overall, had lots of fun...and, with the returning players back next year, they "have hopes of taking state next year."

Faculty... Faculty... Faculty

Adjusting to the new seven period day meant one more class a day to plan for. It also meant more papers to grade. Several teachers complained of being given no more pay or extra ditional preparation time to go along with the extra period of teaching.

Teachers, as well as students, complained that they were more tired at the end of the school day.

In January, teachers traveled to Boise to participate in a professional march to the capitol. The purpose of the march was to stress to the state legislature the dilemma in funding for education in the state.

Despite facing those extra crises, teachers gave their students a sound education.

Sharing Knowledge

Teachers are important at Skyline. They help the students obtain their education and use it to the best of their abilities.

Why did the teachers at Skyline decide to go into the teaching field? Many stated that they chose the teaching occupation because when they were students in high school, their teachers played an important role in their lives. They stated they also liked the satisfaction of seeing the students they have taught progress over the years.

Spare Time Fun

Faculty members liked to have fun, too. How did they enjoy their spare time? Many of them liked hunting, fishing, camping, cross-country skiing, downhill skiing, photography, reading, sewing and traveling. One thing mentioned many times by several teachers was they'd like to spend more time with their families.

In the summer, when school is out, the faculty should be able to pursue some of these enjoyable activities.

Aiming for

Superiority

Some teachers preferred to teach many different subjects. Others preferred to teach just one subject.

Steve Newton, choir teacher at Skyline, commented, "I have been in music since the age of four...it was just the natural thing to do."

Many others feel that they wanted to focus in one area so they could become superior.

A Part of All

Dear Student body.

Through the years I have spent at Skyline, I have never really looked back. All of us, in our haste to complete school, never reflect upon our life here at Skyline. The time has come to look back and remember the times we have spent in our high school. Remember the fun we enjoyed at sports events and in the classroom? Remember the tough challenges we have overcome? Though it wasn't always great, we have lived and thrived at this school and we have learned about ourselves in the process. Skyline has sheltered us and made us strong.

When you flip through the pages of this yearbook, you may shed a tear. Life is lived for memories and Skyline will always be remembered. You must remember it, that is your duty and payment to this school. Understand that we are, and always will be, one. We share a deep feeling that no one can put a price on. You can never really say goodbye, because you will always be a part of me and this school.

"Time isn't holding us,
Same as it ever was,
Once in a lifetime."

Your most humble president,

Alan A. (Andy) Begley

Student Body Officers - Rudi Lewis, school board rep.; Scott Clark, school board rep.; Michelle Carey, business manager; Mike Krsul, public relations manager; Lorette Green, historian; Tami McNew, secretary; Nathan Dustin, vice-president and Andy Begley, president.

Seniors...

At their first class meeting, seniors resolved to pull together and really put their efforts into their final year.

Homecoming was the seniors' first real challenge. After taking third place last year, the Sweepstakes trophy was a tough goal. However, under the organization, dedication and direction of the class officers, the Class of '86 pulled it off. They placed first in every event except the tricycle race and Dress Up Day. Big seniors just didn't fit on small trikes.

There was also a whole lot more work. Seniors had to make sure they fulfilled all of the graduation requirements, write dreaded research papers, apply to colleges and compete for scholarships.

The reward was finally getting to walk through the graduation exercises, receive their diplomas and take their final seat to form the SHS at the end of the ceremonies on June 2.

Planning Ahead

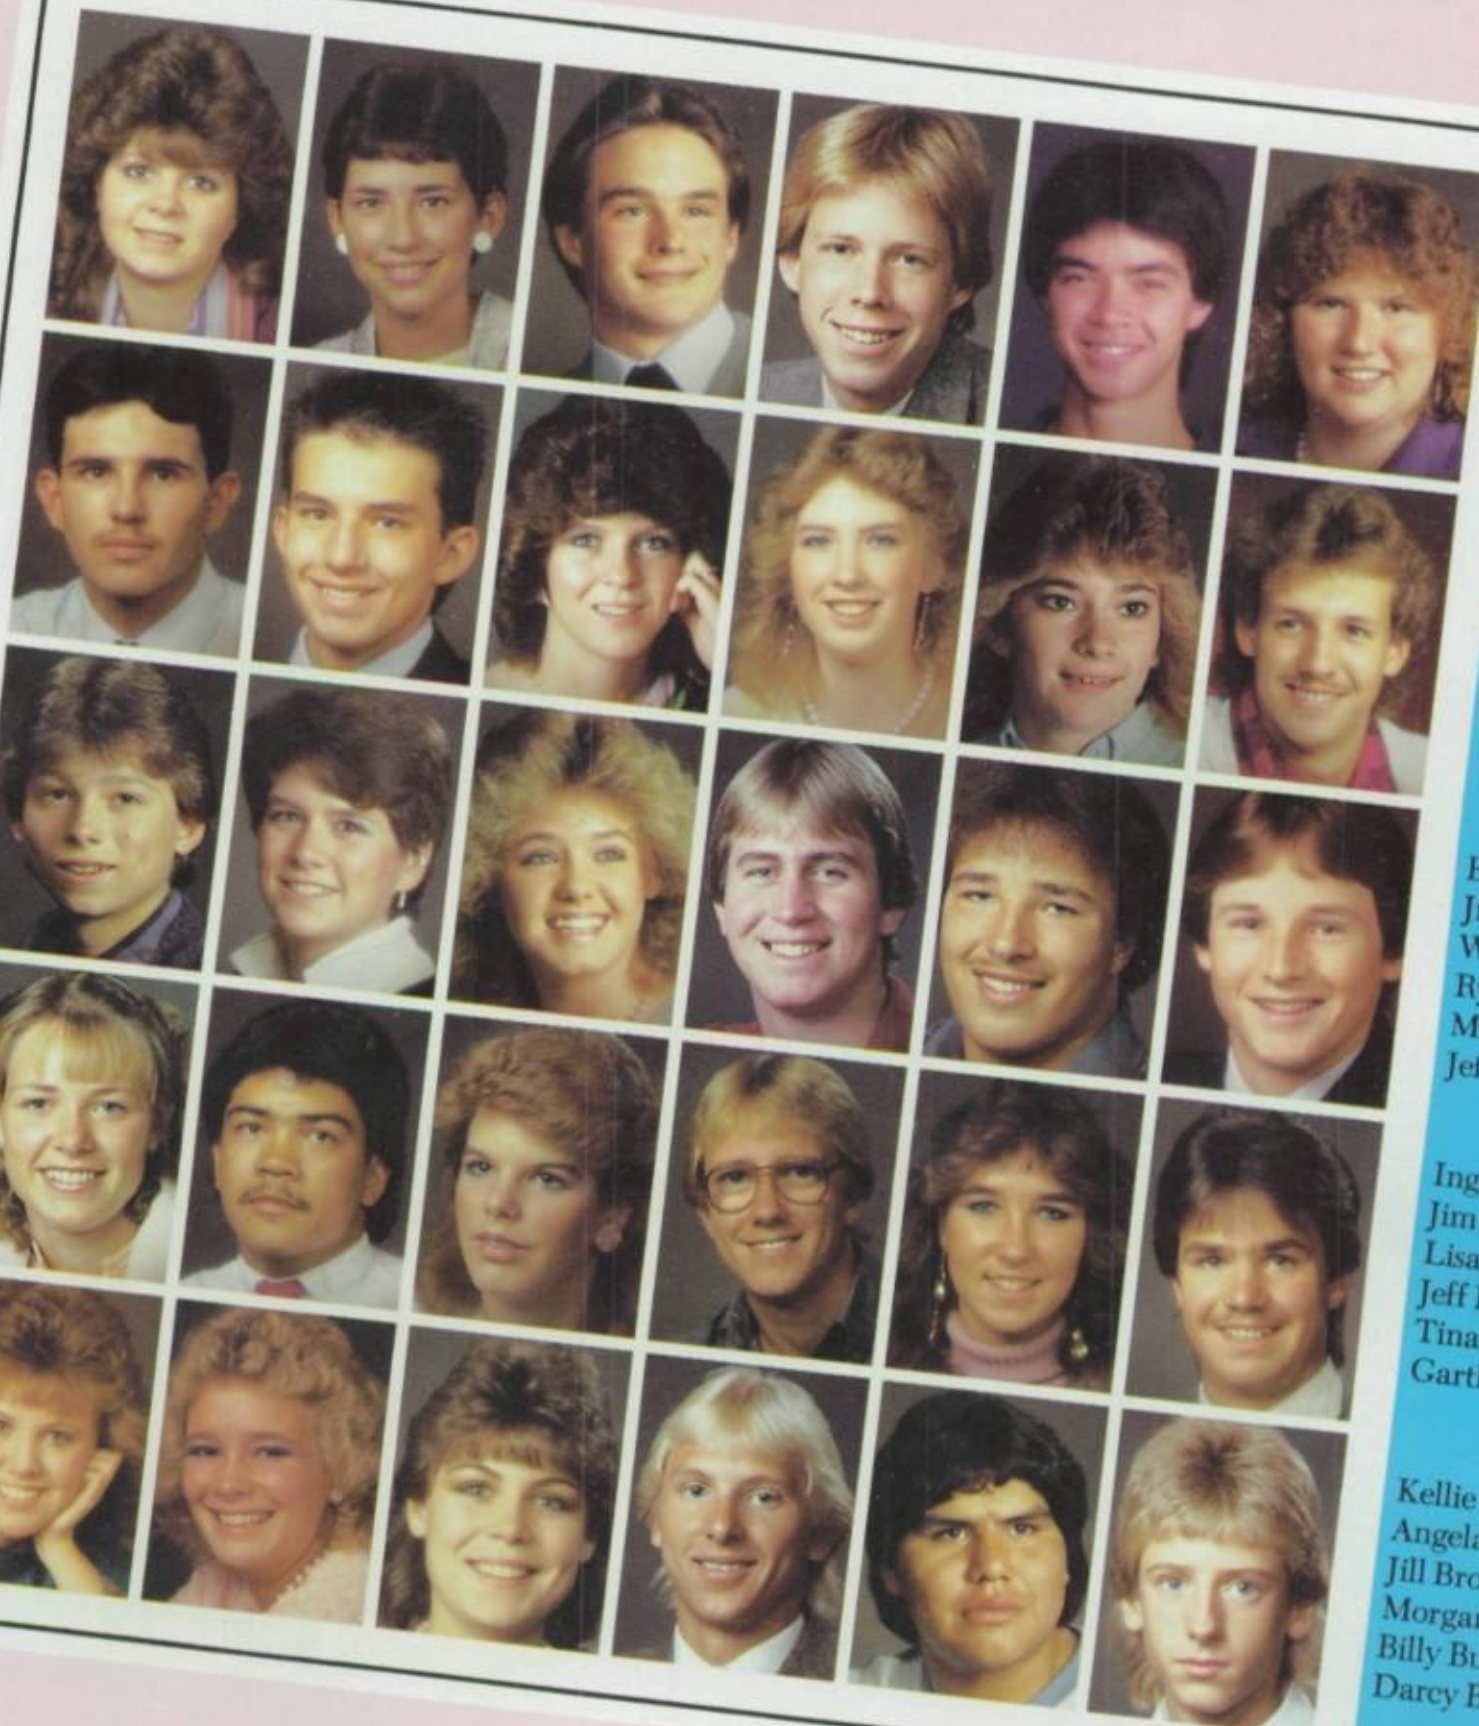

Most seniors, when they got out of high school, planned to go to college, but a few planned to work or even to get married.

When some seniors were asked what they would do after they got out of high school, most of them replied that they would like to finish their schooling.

Lorin Pack said, "Relax for one year and then go to college. Maybe get a job to get some more money."

Barbie Gray replied, "Go to college and just have a lot of fun."

Catching Spring Fever

Spring fever and senioritis brought down the emotional high of many seniors.

Because of this slack, which occurs generally during second semester, interest in school and school studies dropped as seniors suffered from these terrible diseases.

When Laurie Barrie was asked how they affected her, she replied, "Half of my senior year was over, but it seemed like I'd never make it through the second half."

"My senioritis was at its peak! Personally, my second semester was very easy, so I lucked out! I was just excited to graduate and go on with life!" exclaimed Dana Keller.

Costs a lot to Get Out

Many seniors learned that, mainly because of graduation, the cost of going to (or getting out of) school jumped at least two or three times from what they were used to while a sophomore and junior.

Some of the items which made the price go up were color pictures for the annual, cap and gown rental, graduation announcements and tickets for graduation.

When senior Rachel Mecham was asked about how the increased costs of graduation affected her, she replied, "It costs so much and you have to go back time after time to get each thing done; it was just a great big hassle."

Financing

Higher Ed.

All seniors have received at least one letter from a college or university. Out of this and other information, graduates picked the college which offered them the best opportunity to get the education they wanted.

After narrowing their choice of colleges down, seniors took a look at the types of scholarships and other financial help available. Most of the graduates needed some type of help to pay college entrance fees, tuition, books and supplies fees, or the cost of room and board.

Those seniors with higher grade point averages and college placement scores came out with thousands of dollars in full tuition scholarships. Others came out with smaller amounts of money. But, regardless of the amount, the combined members of the Class of '86 received tens of thousands of dollars in financial aid.

At the Top

for a Year

After sitting through their junior and sophomore years and filling the role of being second or third, the seniors got a taste of being number one: the leaders of Skyline for a year.

The Class of '86 led their school through football, wrestling, volleyball, plus all of the up's and down's involved with the in-between's. Seniors showed their leadership abilities in assemblies, homecoming activities and dances.

After ruling Skyline for a year, seniors went out into the real world, hoping to fulfill their hopes and dreams. Perhaps for some, these aspirations - to conquer the world or become the President - were a bit unreal. But other graduates had vivid pictures of what the world had in store for them.

Juniors...

After placing second in Sweepstakes for homecoming last year, the Class of '87 prepared for a sweeping victory over the seniors in this year's homecoming competitions. They gave the seniors a run for their money, but the seniors were not going to be humiliated a second time. The juniors placed first in the tricycle race and the dress-up days competitions, but took second in the sweepstakes.

Putting their talents and enthusiasm to good use, the juniors staged their prom in April, two weeks after the Sophomore Hop.

Caught in the middle of a heavy academic schedule, juniors settled down to their demanding day-to-day studies and also important tests. American history, junior English, math and science filled the main part of their school day. Tests such as the ACT and ITED taxed their intellect.

Entering

the Dating Game

That innocent age of 16, when everyone was held more accountable-more responsible-for what they do, finally arrived.

One of those responsibilities was being able to go out for an hour or two with a member of the opposite sex.

By the time students were juniors, a majority of them had turned 16. For this reason, more students went to dances when juniors than they did as sophomores.

When some juniors were asked about dating, many responses were that "It's fun" or that "You got the opportunity to make new friends and meet new people." Lisa Meikle stated, "Dating helps you to make friends with new people and to broaden your horizons."

Juniors recalled fun dates that they had gone on. Some told about having candle-light dinners in a hotel elevator, at McDonald's or at Big Mama's.

Other juniors recalled playing hide-n-seek in a department store or going on an "around-the-town" treasure hunt.

Even though people dated before they were juniors, more entered the dating game during their junior year.

Couples, such as Laird Brown and Patrice Tromp, enjoyed being themselves at the Homecoming Dance.

Big Time

Decision Making

Juniors found themselves filling major roles and making decisions in several different areas during both the regular school day and out of school hours.

Some juniors assumed major leadership roles in clubs, organizations, productions and performances. Many others filled positions on the various varsity teams and squads in interscholastic sports, drama or debate competitions. And several more were filling spots as crew or shift supervisors, department assistants or presidents of Junior Achievement companies.

Whether in the major roles they filled at school or in their day-to-day routine, juniors had to make important decisions.

A look at

Holding a Job

Ideas of entering the job field went through many juniors' minds during the year.

Some jobs which the juniors filled were: auto mechanics, sales clerks, baby sitting, secretaries, receptionists, cooks, waiters/waitresses, photographers, gas station attendants, grocery baggers and printers.

Entering the chosen job field tended to limit juniors' extracurricular activities. It also interfered with their school studies, which caused grades to fall. As Ginger Rounds stated, "I liked my job, but it got in the way of my school work."

As grades were more important than jobs, several juniors chose to study rather than work. But many others joined the ranks of working students and spent late hours doing homework.

Caught

in the Middle

That simple feeling of just "being there" was a feeling which most juniors had. As one stated, "There really was no change from being a sophomore, except that you sort of knew your way around and you didn't get picked on as much."

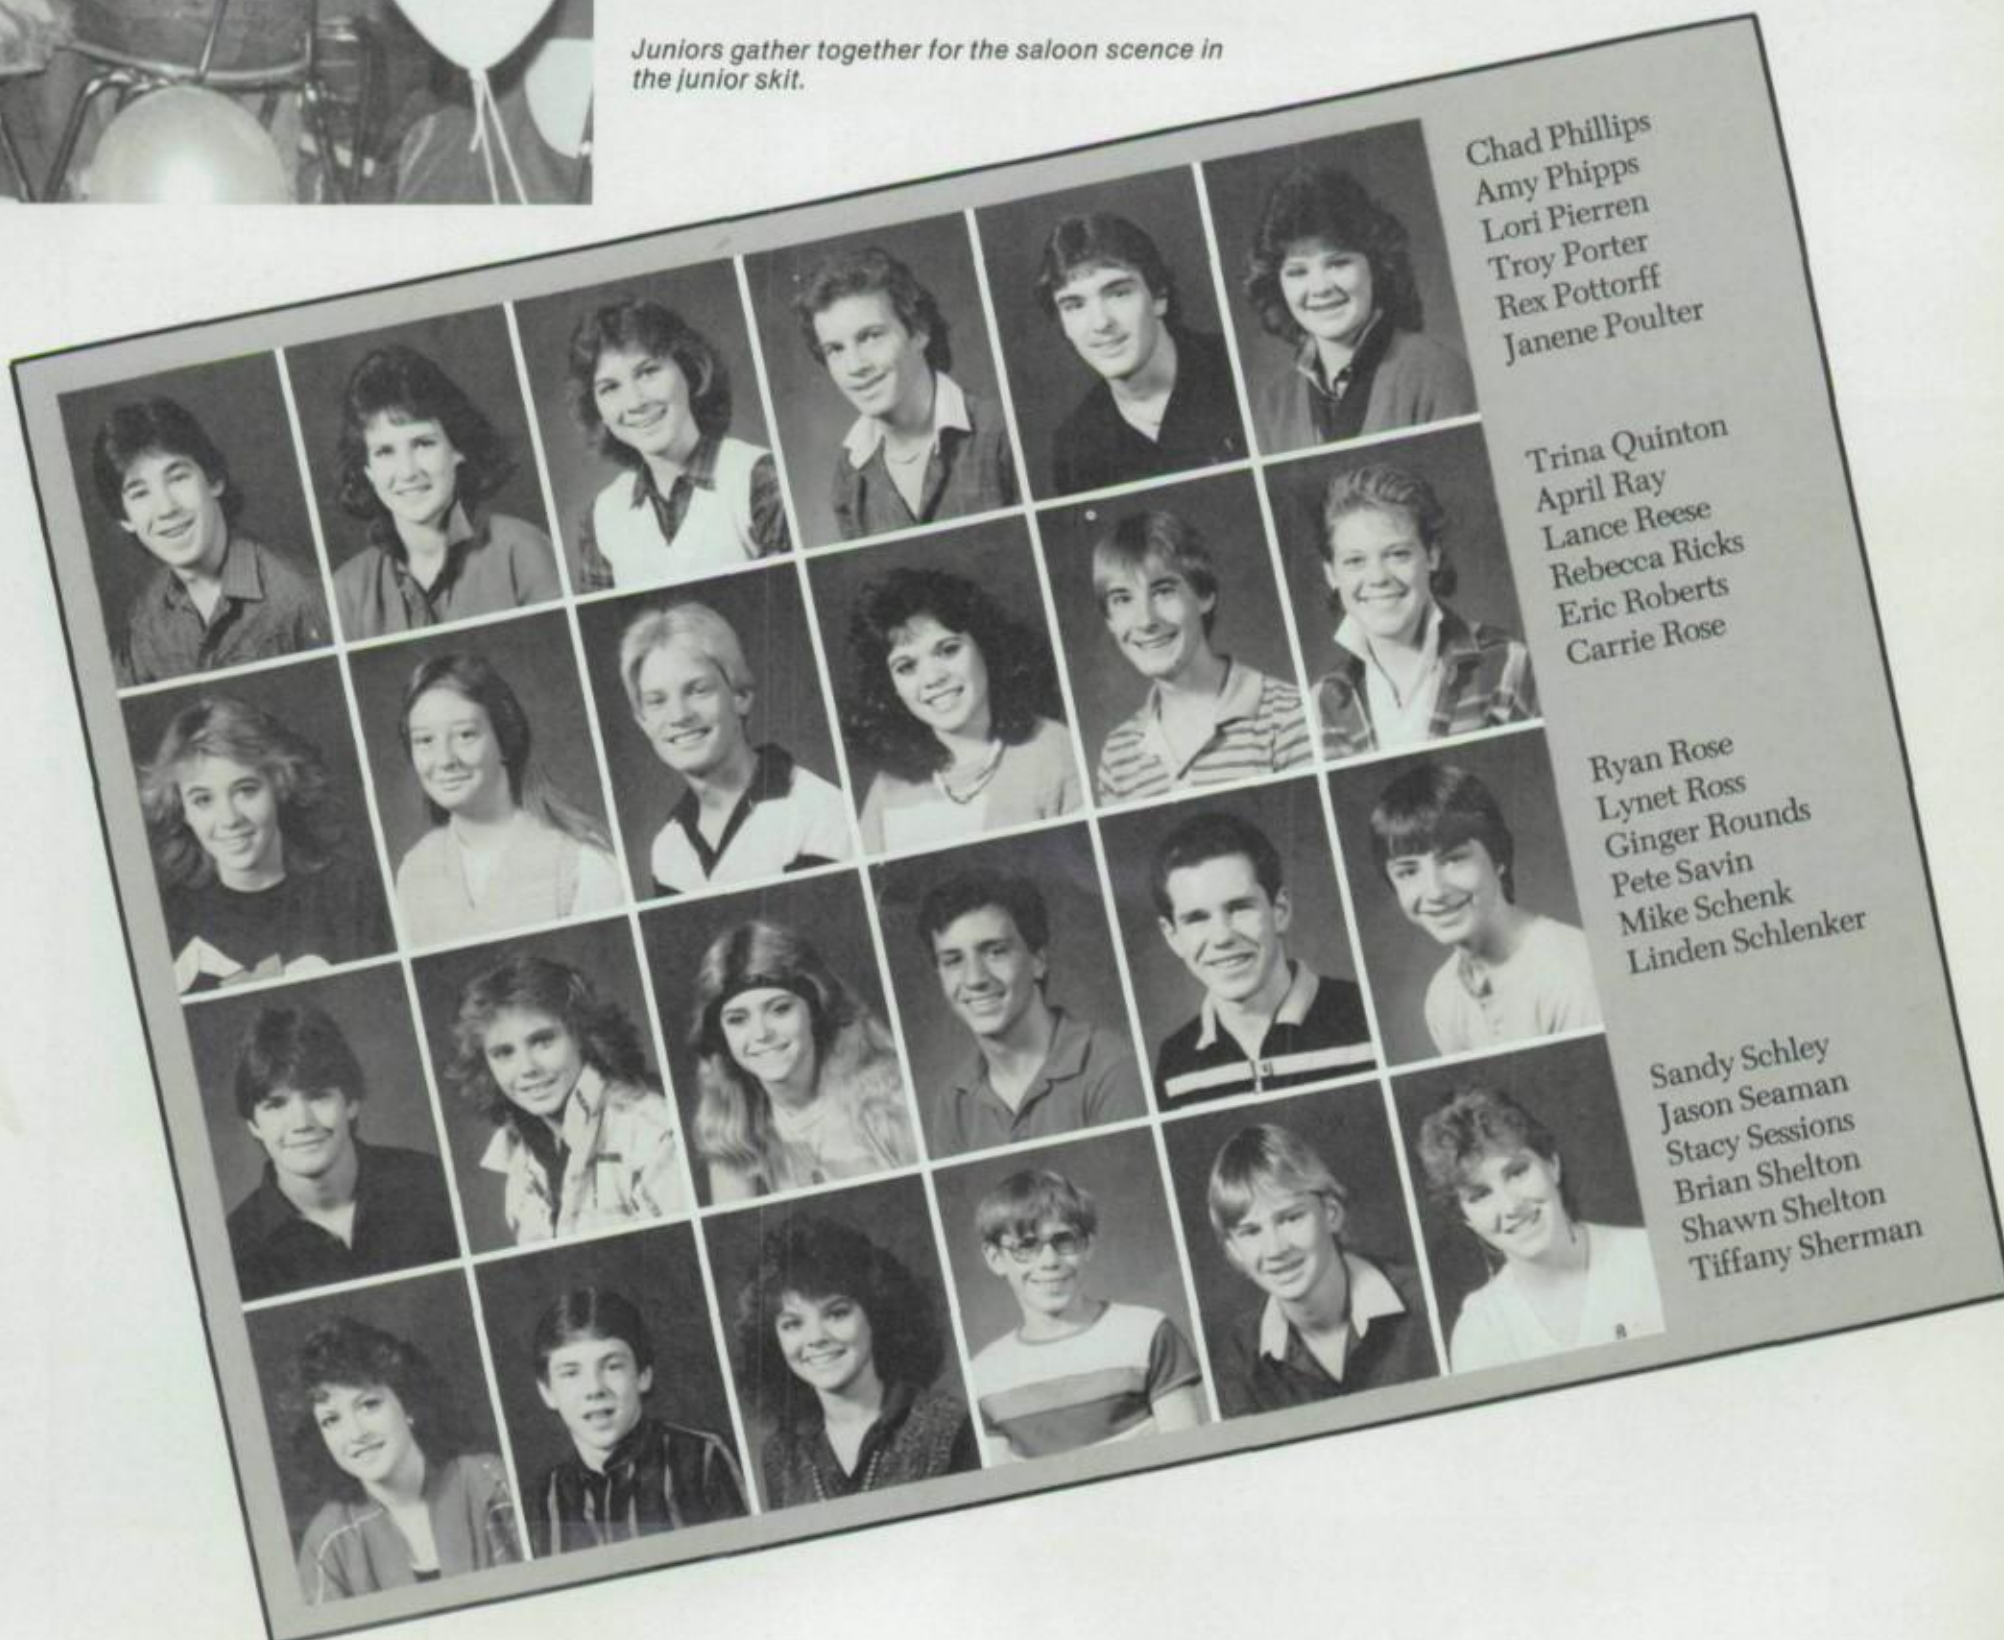

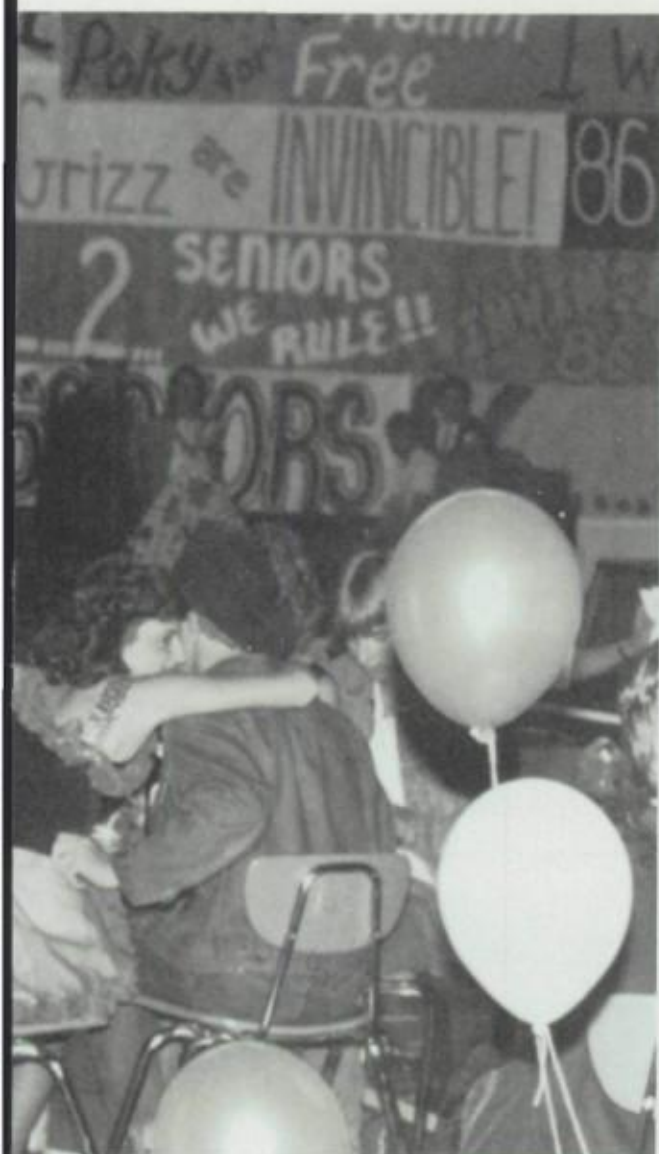

This year, the juniors had to really work hard so that the seniors didn't get too far ahead of them in the Homecoming class competitions. They got a good head start by winning first place on Cowboy and Indian Dress-Up Day and also on Toga

Day.

Perhaps being a bit overzealous to win skits, juniors presented a jam-packed western scenario, which went over the allotted time, but they still took second.

After taking second overall in Homecoming activities, juniors sponsored their Junior Prom in April—between the February Sophomore Hop and the Commencement Dance for the graduating seniors. Once again, juniors were caught in the middle.

Tests

Give Insights

Juniors have spent the past year taking many tests, such as the ACT (American College Test) and the CEEB (College Entrance Examination Board) tests, which are required to get into many colleges.

Other tests taken were the PSAT (Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test) and the NMSQT (National Merit Scholastic Qualifying Test). These preliminary tests provided some idea of the difficulty in the SAT test, which was required as part of the application for some scholarships.

Through these test, juniors received indications of where they ranked with other students across the nation. They also found out if they qualified to enter college, or whether they needed to retake the entrance exams.

Sophomores...

Plastering their spirit wall with posters, sophomores hope to win this Homecoming competition.

"We took the blue from the sky on a bright summer's day..."

Hearing the opening line of the school song in the first pep assembly of the year, the sophomores stood in their section of the gym. They faced the taunting members of the Senior Class. Each sophomore was afraid to be singled out for not knowing the school song and being taken down front to sing it solo for the whole student body.

This feeling was just part of the initial shyness and confusion of the sophomores' first days at Skyline. Although hazing was forbidden, the Class of '88 still had to survive all of the dogpiles and pushups that upperclassmen occasionally inflicted upon them. Sophomores put their efforts into homecoming, but didn't take first place in any of the competitions.

By April, most of the newness had worn off and the sophomores hosted their hop, one of the eight major dances of the year.

As they were members of the first class required to get a "C" average in the required, core classes, the sophomores had to spend more time studying. This study time, plus the hours spent involved in school activities kept the Class of '88 on the go.

Favorite

Past-Times

Everyone liked to have a fun time, especially sophomores. How did sophomores at Skyline have fun?

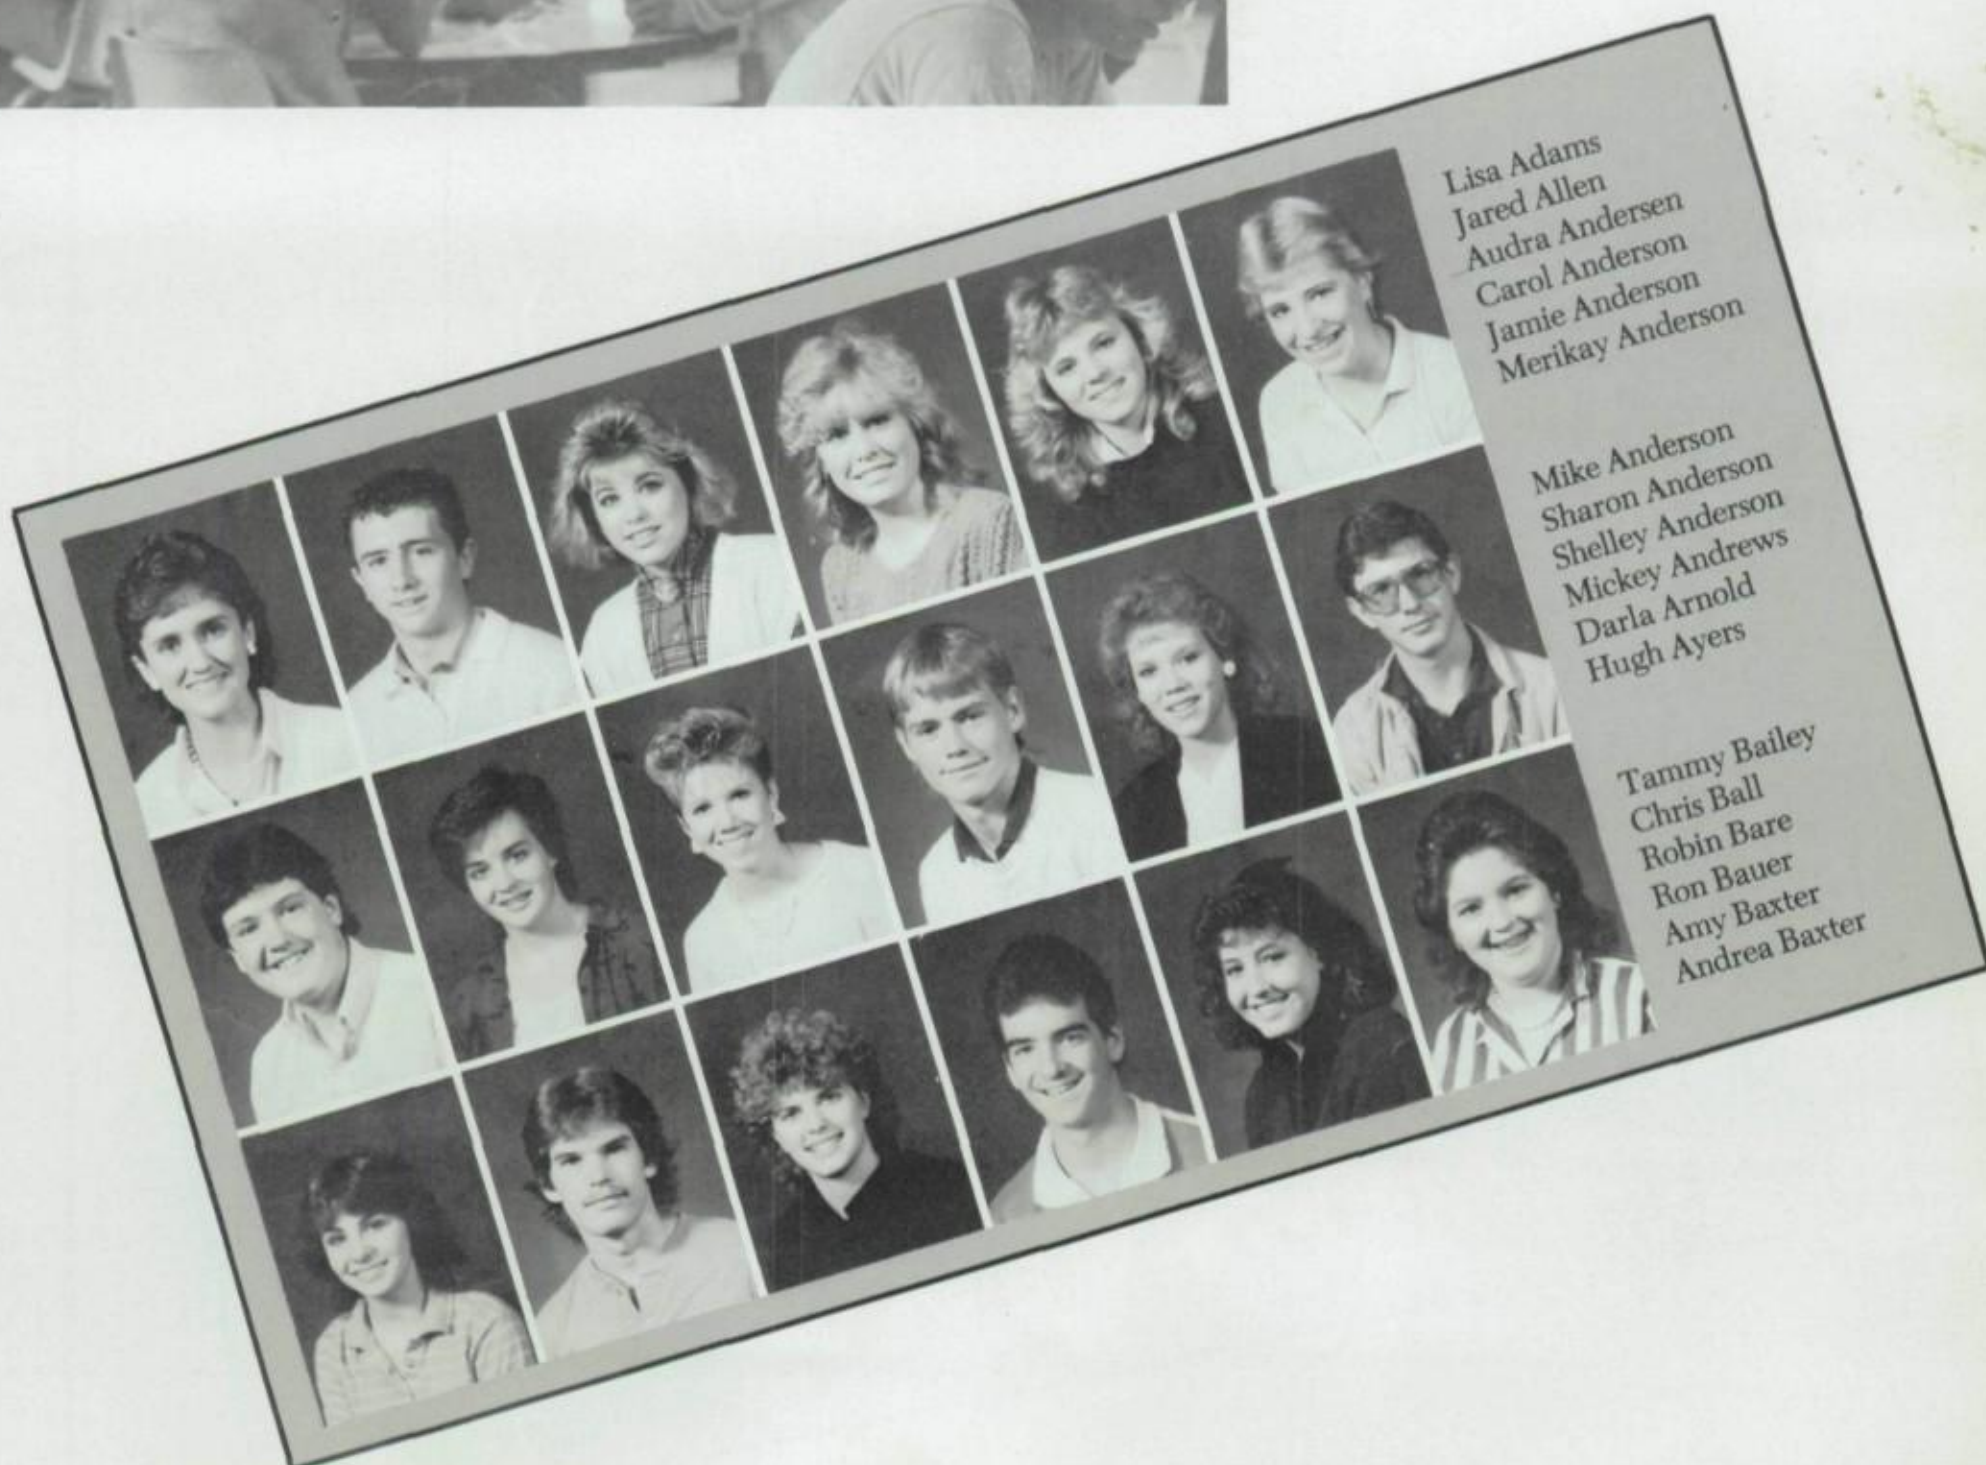

When asked, "How do you like to spend your free time?" comments were as follows: swimming, dancing, horse-back riding, skiing, singing, ice-skating, playing tennis, playing the piano, sewing, talking on the phone or getting into trouble.

And some girls, who wish to remain anonymous, added that they enjoyed "guy-watching" and "guy-chasing" at Skyline.

Guess

Who This Is

I had two bold arms to hug you, two muscular legs used to kick the football through the uprights, two feet to run into the endzone for the winning touchdown and ten toes to help me dance to victory.

I had two beautiful eyes to stare at you, one oversized mouth to cheer for you, one oval-shaped head full of knowledge to understand you.

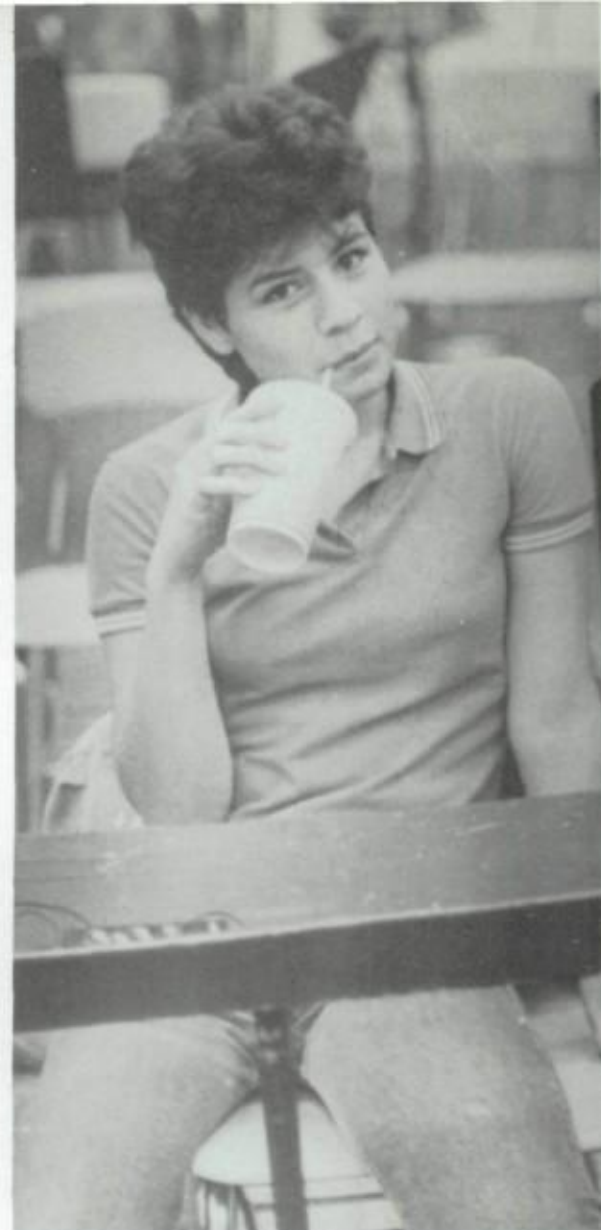

I had one heart full of love for my school and one spirit bulging with high spirit and pride for my school.

Who was I?

I was a proud sophomore of Skyline.

Unfolding

Plot for Victory

Welcomed right from the beginning by the "oldies" but "goodies" (seniors and juniors), the sophomores were thrown into the spirit at Skyline.

Participating in the activities of Homecoming week, sophomores prepared for their J.V. football game against Pocatello and plotted their plan to destroy the seniors and juniors with their Homecoming skit.

Getting their first taste of the spirit required at Skyline by the upperclassmen and the alumni, sophomores all seemed to enthusiastically take in their first Homecoming as they prepared for the next two years' hopeful triumph.

Welcome

to a New Year

DATE: September 4, 1985
SEASON: Fall
CLASS: Sophomores
SUBJECT: Entering Skyline

Scrambling to their first hour classes just before the tardy bell screamed, "You're late!" into their ears, the new sophomores were excited to meet their new school, their new teachers and their new friends.

In their first hour classes,

Enjoying his lunch, which he bought at the school store is David Hodges.

sophomores received information about the strong spirit at Skyline and what was expected of them. They also received the rules of Skyline. Examples were the 90 percent rule, the tardy policy and the teacher's grading policy.

By accepting and respecting these important rules, the sophomores planned to make this year at Skyline their best year thus far.

Climbing

from the Bottom

Graduating from junior high school into high school was like climbing a ladder. As a ninth grader, one is on the junior high top rung. However, when students entered high school, they found that they were on the bottom step of the high school ladder.

Most sophomores became somewhat discouraged having to come from the "top notch" position of being freshmen down to the "down under" position of sophomores.

Well, there is just one way to look at this: There was no where to go but up! And the sophomores did just that. They started climbing up into their own special superiority.

Forgetting what comes after five is Kelly Salzwedel.

Bored with school, Britta Narum tries to communicate with the outside world as Chris Copyak waits her turn.

Sophomores stop to talk to each other in the hall during the lunch hour.

Watching the lunch time volleyball game in the gym are Bonnie Lamm, Elisa Parker and Lisa Keiser.

Laughing up the good times during study time are Raelyn Kirby and Steve Fisher.

"Should I become a famous rock star or a gorgeous movie star?" Jeff Ellis ponders.

Glancing

into the Future

Three strikes and you're out! Sophomores were beginning the final stage of their secondary education and making decisions for their futures.

Though most sophomores weren't really sure what they wanted to do after high school, many did have dreams about the future.

Many thoughts were about which college they would attend after their completion of high school. Colleges mentioned included: University of Idaho, Idaho State University, Brigham Young University, Ricks, University of Illinois, Boston College, University of Utah, Utah State, Yale and, yes, even Harvard.

Sophomores had big dreams about their future occupations, too. Some commeted that they would like to be accountants, designers, movie stars, hair stylists, dentists, nurses or doctors, computer operators or professional athletes.

Sophomores dreamed big dreams, but the future will show how the fondest hopes can be changed by the realities of the day when those dreams have to be transformed into definite decisions.

With nothing else to do, Glenda Johnson enjoys daydreaming at noon.

Making fun of the passing seniors are Monica Hamberlin, Teri Wilde, Art Baker, Tom Murdock and Brian Moore.

Ads...Ads...Ads...Ads...Ads...

With shiny cars, an attractive sign, a catchy slogan and an ad in our yearbook, Griffin's Bigfoot Motors hopes to attract customers.

To advertize the latest look in summer fashion, stores coordinated outfits on mannequins.

Money, money, money! It has such great value to us all. Without money, this book wouldn't have been possible; the total cost of producing this '86 edition was over $17,000.

Although the economy in Idaho Falls has undergone major changes in the past year, so many Idaho Falls merchants showed their support that the Behemoth staff managed to sell the most ads our yearbook has ever had (over $2400 worth).

The downtown business area saw the greatest changes with Farr's Jewelry moving out to the Grand Teton Mall and both Block's and Ahlstrom's closing their doors and retiring from business. These were three of the major stores in the downtown area and their absence brought changes to the economy of the area.

Gas prices also fell drastically in the spring, going lower than they had been in five years. The highest price this year was $1.22⁹ and the lowest before graduation was $.76⁹.

AS...R

With it's mirror windows reflecting the American Flag, the downtown Valley Bank building is one of the most beautiful in town.

One of our sponsors, Kesler's IGA, put up a new sign to display their specials.

Advertising a lunch special is the Scotty's Drive-In marquee.

A leading downtown retailer, Ferrell's, supports Skyline through a yearbook ad, as they have during each of Skyline's 20 years.

Displaying Easter items for sale, a window in the Shoup & B Plaza downtown reflects the building across the street.

On a scale of 1 to 10 about a .1.

It was a real Cert's Encounter.

It was boring but it got better as it went on.

It was awesome!

Pushing up into a handstone on his skateboard is Derek David.

Covered with blankets to keep them warm, students and parents brave the chilly spring weather to watch one of the first baseball games of the season.

Answering questions in a interview conducted by Jill Beck and Shanley Richards are German exchange students Falk-Oliver Sohn, Guido Tillinger, Markus Lendthaler, Gerold Tillinger and Stefan Windisch.

As the snow melted, the length of the pants worn to school also decreased. Shorts appeared as part of the new spring fashions until they were forbidden when the situation got out-of-hand.

Spring didn't just bring shorts, it brought a general attitude among students. To many, school became monotonous and most everyone was eager to be outside enjoying the nice weather instead of in a stuffy classroom.

Music from ghettoblasters could be heard in the halls as a crowd lounged against the wall in between classes. At lunch, the skateboarders cruised around the front sidewalks performing tricks while other students sat on the lawn and watched them, talked with their friends or finished their lunch.

The student body took on a generally layed-back attitude before they finally had to get it in gear and work hard to make up for all of the enjoyed, but wasted, time. We had all been caught relaxing a little and "We Gotcha Covered."

Relaxing A Little

Finishing off her piece of cake during a baby shower for their coach, Mrs. Vickie Christensen, which her fifth and sixth hour debate classes threw for her is Aimee Pollard.

Kicking back in their hotel room while in Boise for the state basketball tournament, Bryan Stosich and Jim Blair watch some T.V.

Asking "Teve (Corey Watkins) for permission to marry his daughter, "Tiztle," in the play, "Fiddler on the Roof," is "Lazt Wolfe" (Robert Carter).

Geting their senior research paper note cards checked off by Mrs. Carol Mills are Alan Fjeld, Toby Dixon, Roger Anderson, Collin Knight and Paul Anderson.

Helping the young children who take part in the child development class' pre-school nursery project get ready to make and eat deviled eggs are Linda Hogg, instructor Mrs. Marianne Timmons and Rebecca Ricks.

Carefully pondering his response to a question on a test in Mrs. Joanne Young's fifth hour junior literature class is Steve McMurtrey.

To illustrate how his physics project, a tone intensifier, gives him a wider range of notes, Brian Gordon plays his electric guitar.

Making The Grade

The last month of school was filled with work...work...work.

The dreaded senior research paper loomed up and haunted the lives of all seniors who had senior comp. second semester. Physics students finished up their projects and displayed them. Art classes hung up their final shows. Semester tests were composed and given out to sleepy students who had stayed up all night to cram for these finals. All of these projects determined whether the students passed or failed second semester.

Big bags filled with books were lugged around by students who needed to use every spare minute working on something for school. We had waited for the end of school to come, but when it finally crept up on us, we groaned that we had too little time to do too much.

Students frantically counted up absences and tardies to see where they had some slack and where they were on the verge of getting their grades cut. The primary concern in most students' lives was making the grade and "We Gotcha Covered."

Wrapping It Up

Although this book took endless planning and most of my spare time, I'm really glad that I was asked to be Editor for a second year. I thought last year's book was great, but when I view it next to all of the things we've done in this book, the one from last year doesn't even compare.

While attending a yearbook workshop, I looked through hundreds of magazines. I discussed some of the graphics, layout ideas and production methods with yearbook experts. I came home convinced that we could do a lot of the neat things I'd seen in magazines in this yearbook. I then convinced my new staff that we could adopt these new layout styles and make them work in our yearbook. Of course, some of them aren't as fancy as they are in the magazines, but we tightened our budget to get them to look good with the money we had.

I would like to thank Mr. Don Harris, our adviser, for putting in all the extra hours and for keeping things organized with all the hectic scheduling and deadlines. I'd like to also thank my staff for taking on all of the new ideas and special instructions, and for putting in all of their time and effort. The photographers deserve thanks, too, because they gave up lots of their free time to attend events and take pictures for us.

I'd also like to let the student body, faculty and administration know that all of their cooperation and support was appreciated. Thank you.

And last, but very importantly, I'd like to thank all of the local businesses which supported our book and our school by purchasing an ad. Without their support, we couldn't have financed this book.

I hope you enjoy this yearbook as much as I've loved putting it together.

Thanks,

Janna Howells

Editor-in-Chief

Glad that they have only 17 more days of school left, Mark Mortensen, Mike Mill and Brad Johnston lead the first stream of students on the way out to the parking lot.

To make certain that a finished page for the May 19 deadline has everything there, Editor-in-Chief Janna Howells lays all of the pictures and copy out on the layout form for a final check.
